Matter referred to legal staff

County mulls airport name change

City officials remain hopeful that Detroit Metro Airport will be renamed Romulus International Airport after a meeting with county officials recently.

However, it is far from a sure thing even though the county's Public Works committee has referred the name change proposal to its legal department for study.

Steven Bonczek, Romulus community development director, appeared before the Public Works committee March 21 and said the name change is deserved because of what he called the many inconveniences the airport imposes on Romulus residents.

But Bonczek almost didn't get a chance to speak.

When the item was brought up on the agenda, there was an immediate motion to table it. However, Chairman Ed Harris, whose district includes Romulus, delayed the motion until Bonczek gave his presentation.

Bonczek was representing Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley and City Council, who asked Oakley "to vigorously pursue the changing of the name of the airport to Romulus International Airport."

Included in the list of difficulties presented by Bonczek were:

-Metro Airport comprises 25 percent of the total land area of Romulus.

-Has tax-exempt status.

-Centrally located which affects mobility from one section of the city to another.

-Flight patterns limit the construction of residential housing by affecting the availability of mortgage funds.

-Noise and air pollution unfavorably impair citizens' health.

-Has made Romulus notorious as a favorite location for dumping dead bodies.

"All of the foregoing directly affects the quality of life of every Romulus citizen," the Romulus community development director told the Public Works Committee.

"Therefore, it is only fair that the citizens of Romulus, whose comfort and convenience is being compromised every day, be compensated through changing the name of the airport to Romulus International Airport."

"The citizens would then receive increased recognition and identity as the location of one of the world's largest airports," Bonczek pointed out.

He further explained that the name change would reflect an increasing national trend to name major institutions after where they are located.

"The mayor also feels that this action would limit the amount of criticism that residents have for the airport and engender increased pride in our community."

Bonczek closed by urging the Public Works committee to favorably respond to the name change.

Mitchell Zolik, deputy managing director of Wayne County Road Commission which operates the airport, rebutted Bonczek's remarks by pointing out that the airport has already undergone two name changes in the past.

"It was first called Wayne County Airport, then Wayne County Major Airport, and finally in 1957, Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport," Zolik said.

Richard Larson, the road commission's director of transportation, argued that, "The airport does serve Metropolitan Detroit and therefore deserves the inclusion Metro in its title."

"The current title makes it more easily identifiable in nationwide airport scheduling and the direction of air freight packages."

Commissioner Conrad Mallet of Detroit then moved that the issue be sent to corporation counsel for a legal opinion on who has the authority for a name change. The motion passed unanimously.

Commissioner Maxine Young of Detroit then gave compassionate support to Romulus, saying, "The citizens that have suffered so much through the operation of the airport should be rewarded in some way."

Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) introduced a resolution in January that the airport's name be changed to Romulus International Airport.

Now Romulus awaits the legal opinion before it can renew efforts to secure the name change.

Residents continue tax protest

Photo shows crowd of angry Romulus residents who turned out Monday night at the UAW Hall to protest property tax boosts which have resulted from recent reassessment in the city. The meeting was the latest in a series of tax protest sessions and was a prelude to a scheduled meeting next Monday in the Romulus High School auditorium at which Richard H. Headlee, president of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, will be the featured speaker. Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.

Demands assessor be fired

400 Attend tax protest

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

One of the co-chairmen of last week's taxpayer protest meeting in Romulus used the forum to demand that City Assessor Dave Krause be fired.

In addition, Ed Rush took verbal swipes at other city departments and procedures, much like a campaign orator in the heat of an election campaign.

Rush held the rapt attention of more than 400 persons who attended Thursday night's tax protest meeting at Local 157 Union Hall on Van Born.

"I don't know about you, but I'm going to fight to see this thing corrected," Rush told his audience, which included a wide spectrum of persuasion.

Among his listeners were several City councilmen, City Clerk Leonard Folmar, some city department heads, State Rep. Edward Mahalak, County Commissioner Ed Harris, as well as a large number of upset taxpayers.

"Well, the trouble-maker is here. My wife would like to shoot you," Rush quoted City Assessor Krause as telling him recently.

Rush also told the audience that Krause blamed the "tax trouble" on "Myself, Mel Morgan and Mrs. McAnally." Morgan was the other co-chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Beverly McAnally is a City Council member.

Some observers in the audience felt it was in very poor taste to "quote" Krause without him there to give his side. Also, Rush later quoted School Board President Wayne Avery as saying School Supt. James Garfield credibility isn't that good.

After finishing his tirade against Krause and other things he feels are wrong in the city, including closed meetings on residency requirements, the finance department, and other items, Rush asked how many would like to see Mayor William Oakley fire Krause.

"I've got a petition to have the mayor fire the city assessor. How many of you would sign it?" Rush asked the audience. Many hands were raised in agreement and Rush and others passed them out to the crowd. Rush received a large round of applause when he finished speaking.

Morgan refused to take part in the petition drive to have Oakley fire Krause. "I do not believe that we should go about it that way," Morgan said after the meeting. "I think elected officials know if their department heads are doing a good job or not. If the elected official does not do a good job, then the best 'petition' is to vote him out of office at the next election."

Morgan made it clear that his non-participation in the effort to have Krause fired did not mean he agreed with the city assessor.

"I've heard he's not been very courteous at times and there have been many complaints against him, but I feel there is a better way than a petition asking the mayor to fire him," said Morgan, who revealed that several close relatives had signed the petition.

Although Morgan spurned the petition drive to have Krause fired by the mayor, the self-employed Romulus businessman went on an oratorical spree of his own.

"We're sending certified letter to school administration and asking how much money is in various funds," he began. "We're also going to send certified letters to the city finance department and ask how much money is in each fund to see where we stand financially."

Morgan said, "We demand fiscal responsibility and with this number of people out on a rainy night, the first shot has been fired."

The lifetime resident of Romulus was extremely critical of the Wayne County Road Commission and what he called the "deplorable conditions of the roads in the city." He told the audience he asked Mayor Oakley to exercise his police powers to close down one of our roads "until we get some action from the road commission on fixing up their roads."

Overshadowed by the descriptive rhetoric was the fact that two other tax groups were represented at the meeting. A 15-minute slide presentation was given by Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation and a spokesman for Citizens for Reasonable Taxation also spoke briefly.

Huron again sets vote on millage

"If at first you don't succeed..." That is probably the thinking of a group of Huron Township voters after a recent 10-mill renewal for school operation was defeated at the polls.

Some parents petitioned the school board for another election and resubmit the 10-mill proposal to the voters. As a result, the board voted to put the issue to another vote on June 12.

But there will be a distinct change in June. Instead of asking for the 10-mills for 10 years, the time limit has been cut in half to five years.

Some residents were angered because their tax bills were raised 6.7 mills, but Huron School administrators say the state is responsible for much of the increase because it reneged to make up 4.5 mills it said it would.

School officials say the state passed legislation "in the middle of the stream" and it left the residents to pay the levy.

Some residents don't like the fact that 230 students from 18 outside school districts attend Huron Schools. Annual tuition for out-of-district students is $30.

"When kids are attending your schools by choice then I think it says something good about your schools," School Supt. Byron Ant-cliff was quoted as saying.

Michigan Week

Mayor William M. Oakley has officially designated the period from May 20 to May 27 as the 25th annual observance of Michigan Week in Romulus.

Michigan week will run from Saturday to Saturday, with Monday, May 22, being Mayors' Exchange Day when the top elected officials of many communities trade places with mayors of other cities.

Seeks tax limit

Richard H. Headlee, president of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, will be the featured speaker Monday, April 17, at a tax protest rally of Romulus residents in the Romulus High School auditorium. His organization seeks to place a tax limitation amendment on the November ballot.

Willow Run expansion will affect Canton

Plans, however, are still unknown

By CARRIE YOUNG

Canton Township resident Bart Berg can't say flatly what the long-range plans for the expansion of Willow Run Airport should be.

But, as the township's newly-appointed representative on the review team for the development of the facility, he says, that with no ifs-and-or-buts, any decision will affect Canton.

"Expansion could mean disaster for residents in the area, or it could mean a big plus for the economy," said Berg. "Or it could mean both, but it's going to mean something to Canton no matter what happens to the airport."

Ever since former owner and operator of the airport, University of Michigan, announced that the facility was for sale, the local area communities began to weigh the pros and cons of how any possible expansion could affect them.

Despite a joint effort of Van Buren, and Ypsilanti townships, the city of Ypsilanti, and at one time, Canton, to purchase the airport, the school sold the outfit, lock stock and barrel, to the Wayne County Road Commission.

With the road commission's purchase agreement concluded, the local communities began to fear that expansion was on the way—ready or not. But, the road commissioners now say that they want to be sure that any proposed development of the airport is consistent with local and regional plans, and that fair consideration be given to the interests of the surrounding communities.

That being the case, a representative from each of the communities and an alternate have been appointed, and will sit on the Review Team Board. In Canton, Sup. Harold Stein was chosen to be Berg's alternate.

Other members of the team will be representatives from the road commission, major airlines serving Willow Run, and federal, state and local planning agencies.

The initial meeting of the team took place on Tuesday when preliminary plans were discussed. Eventually, the group of officials will have to draft and complete a master plan for the airport's development if the program is to qualify for federal funds, according to the road commission's director of finance, Datis Norton.

Subsequent sessions are to be scheduled.

Norton said that there are no grandiose schemes to make the airport into one of the world's largest freight terminals. "At least not in the near future," he said.

"The maximum anticipation for the airport from past studies is to make it the world's largest freight terminal, but that's only in our wildest imaginations," said Norton.

He said that no rapid expansion is foreseen, and that only with input from the communities and other sources, can the road commission accurately start to make projections.

"If it's a good thing for the economy, of course that will have some bearing on our decision," he said. "And, if it is harmful to the communities, that will be of our concerns too."

Berg has some definite opinions on what is an economic plus for Canton and what is figured to be a negative.

"If it means condemning property to do it, I'm not for it, because you can upgrade it without purchasing a large amount of acreage," said Berg.

He added that the county road commission's unofficial promise to the communities that any major expansion would not take place until five to eight years was for the most part something they would stick to.

"But, my feeling is that they've already got it in their minds pretty much what they want to do with it, and they're just inviting us in on the meetings to make us feel that we're helping in the decision process," said Berg.

Berg maintains that expansion could mean anything from an immediate plan to upgrade on-site facilities to changing flight patterns or lengthening runways. But, he doesn't feel that the county will proceed westward into Washtenaw County, because of having to jointly work with another county.

"They'll probably come north, if they do expand, which would mean that Michigan to Beck Road would develop into industry. And, an expanded flight pattern could mean the curtailment of future residential development and hardship for some existing residents who would be in the flight pattern," said Berg.

But he noted that predictions were difficult, if not premature, to make.

Stein also said that forecasting the facility's future was too early, but he insisted that any foreseeable complaints from homeowners would have to be kept in perspective. He says that the airport was existing prior to the homeowners, in most cases.

"And if they do increase their traffic, who's to say they can't do it?"

"It just might be a very big plus for the economy; after all the airport is our main attraction out here, and if it expands it will naturally bring some badly needed industry to us," he said.

He added, that if development could evolve without bringing undesirable affects to homeowners, that that would be "ideal." But he said, "No one knows anything yet, so let's not panic."

What's for lunch?

Menu entrees of oven-fried chicken, Salisbury steak and barbequed beef will be among food items to be served next week in the cafeterias of the Van Buren public schools.

In the elementary schools Monday the menu will be soup, grilled cheese sandwiches, fruit, chilly things and milk, with juice, baked meat loaf, mashed potatoes and gravy, bread and butter, cake and milk on tap for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday's lineup will be barbequed beef on buns, french fries, fruit, cookies and milk, while soup, pizza, vegetable, pie and milk will be served next Thursday.

Closing out the week will be a menu of soup, tacos, fruit, Jell-O, pudding and milk.

In the two junior highs, the menu Monday will be chicken turnovers with mashed potatoes and gravy, salad, chilly things and milk, followed by oven-fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, bread and butter, fruit, Jell-O, pie and milk on Tuesday.

The bill of fare next Wednesday will be barbequed beef on buns, with side dishes of soup, potato chips, fruit, cookies and milk.

Next Thursday the cafeterias will be serving Salisbury steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, vegetable, bread and butter, fruit, Jell-O, cake and milk, while a lineup of soup, clam rolls, french fries, fruit cobbler and milk will close out the week next Friday.

The alternate menu items in the junior highs will be Belleville burgers Monday, doubleburgers with cheese Tuesday, chili cheeseburgers on large buns next Wednesday, Coney Island foot-longs next Thursday and tacos next Friday.

WCCC offers nursing class

Wayne County Community College is offering a program for registered nurses interested in updating their knowledge and skills in the area of ambulatory care.

This course is divided into two eight-week sections and will focus on physical assessment and nursing management of current major health problems. The first eight-week segment will begin May 1, and will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the college's Nativity Center.

Ninety-six continuing education credits will be granted on completion of course.

Interested RNs should call Lucille Dessler in the WCC Department of Nursing at 832-2330, Mondays or Wednesdays from 1 to 4:45 p.m.

New Romulus BPW Club gets charter

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Amid the glamour of evening gowns and flickering candle lights, 42 women were inducted into the newly-chartered Romulus Business and Professional Women's Club Saturday night in an impressive ceremony at the Airport Hilton.

Sponsored by the BPW Club of Belleville, the official ceremonies giving Romulus its own BPW group were attended by more than 100 persons, including officials from state, national and international levels.

Mistress of Ceremonies for the festive occasion was Ruth Davis, president of the Belleville BPW, and the invocation was given by The Rev. Susan K. DeFoe, pastor of Faith United Methodist Church, Belleville.

Officers of the new Romulus BPW include Bonnie Lozier, president;

Marie Debuyscher, vice-president; Rita McLenon, secretary and Ann Gedert, treasurer.

After a dinner of marinated beef, Vira Petraska introduced the large number of visiting guests, some of whom came from Canada for the occasion. Others came long distances from the upper parts of lower Michigan to take part in the chartering of the nation's 129th BPW Club.

After a brief history of BPW by Stephanie Nowak, executive secretary, Michigan federation, Lorraine Washburne outlined the steps that led to the organizing of the Romulus club.

Then the 42 women were introduced and inducted as charter members of the Romulus BPW by Marlene Danol, second vice-president, Michigan federation, and Mary Alice Osgerby, district 11 director and 1976-77 state expansion chairman.

As the ladies were inducted, each one lit a candle and carried it as they formed two lines across the front of the head table.

Included in the 42 charter members inducted into the new Romulus BPW Club Saturday evening were:

Maryann Banks, Lorraine Block, Louise Briody, Joretta Canejo, Violet Cann, Pauline Cantrell, Doris Carpenter, Genievia Carr, Laura Chesno, Mary Ann Cunningham, Marie BeBuysscher, Cynthia Domas, Genevieve Dugan, Patricia Flemming.

Also, Therese Furlong, Ann Gedert, Patricia Gresock, Evelyn Jensen, Juanita Laine, Shirley Lombardi, Bonnie Lozier, Patricia Lucke, Beverly McAnally, Margaret McCrory, Rita McLenon, Clara Moody, Connie Moore, Joyce Morgan.

And Janet Nichols, Judith Nutt, Mary Oakley, Norma Peterson, Marianne Pokrowski, Leona Romansky, Robin Rothe, Kundan Sata, D.D.S., Marilyn Sutton, Norma Thompson, Carmen Vestuart, Theresa Washington, Donna Lee Zavitz and AnnaLisa Zbikowski.

Different colored flowers were given the four charter officers by Mary Esther Daddazio, president, Michigan federation of BPW, who explained the meaning of the colors to the recipients.

Presenting the gavel, president's pin, memory book and guest book to President Bonnie Lozier were Jean Allan, district 15 director, Ruth Davis, Hilla Wright, immediate past president, Michigan federation, and Lorraine Washburne.

Mayor William M. Oakley gave the new ladies' club an official welcome to Romulus, not only as the chief elected official, but mainly as a fellow member of a service club.

The Romulus BPW Club set a record with its 42 charter members being the largest number inducted into a new club.

Also reported to be "a record" number of handsome husbands on hand for a charter ceremony were the many men in the audience, Mrs. Daddazio said.

Seniors building has growing pain

Romulus senior citizens will be the recipients of a brand new $150,000 multi-purpose center paid for by a federal grant of $112,500 and city funds of $37,500.

Recently approved by city council, the project will be an addition to the existing Recreation Dept. building at 36515 Bibbins St.

The Community Development Administration of Romulus received the grant for the Senior Citizen Multi-Purpose Center through Title V of the Older Americans Act.

Objective of the new project is the expansion and renovation of a section of the existing Recreation building which now serves as the senior citizen drop-in center.

Hopefully, space for six service agencies serving older citizens will be available in the new addition, which will be on the west and south sides of the present structure at Bibbins and Shook streets.

Included in the services are the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Senior Citizens Legal Aid Project, Wayne County Office on Aging, Helping Hand Thrift Shop, Romulus Help and Job Placement Center, and Family and Neighborhood Services. "The approval of the proposed project to expand the facility will enable the city to provide more comprehensive services to seniors," said Mayor William Oakley.

"I am very interested in improving the lives of our seniors through innovative programs involving all aspects of public service."

The new 1,250 square foot addition to the existing 3,750 square foot building will include barrier-free toilets, office space, new kitchen facility, and a large multi-purpose room. Also, modifications of existing facilities will be brought up to code and barrier-free conditions.

Stephen Bonczek, community grants director, submitted the grant application for the city and was instrumental in helping to get the grant along with an ad hoc committee which studied the project.

The ad hoc group, which was responsible for the early developmental stages of the project, included administrative personnel of the City of Romulus, local social service agencies and interested Romulus senior citizens.

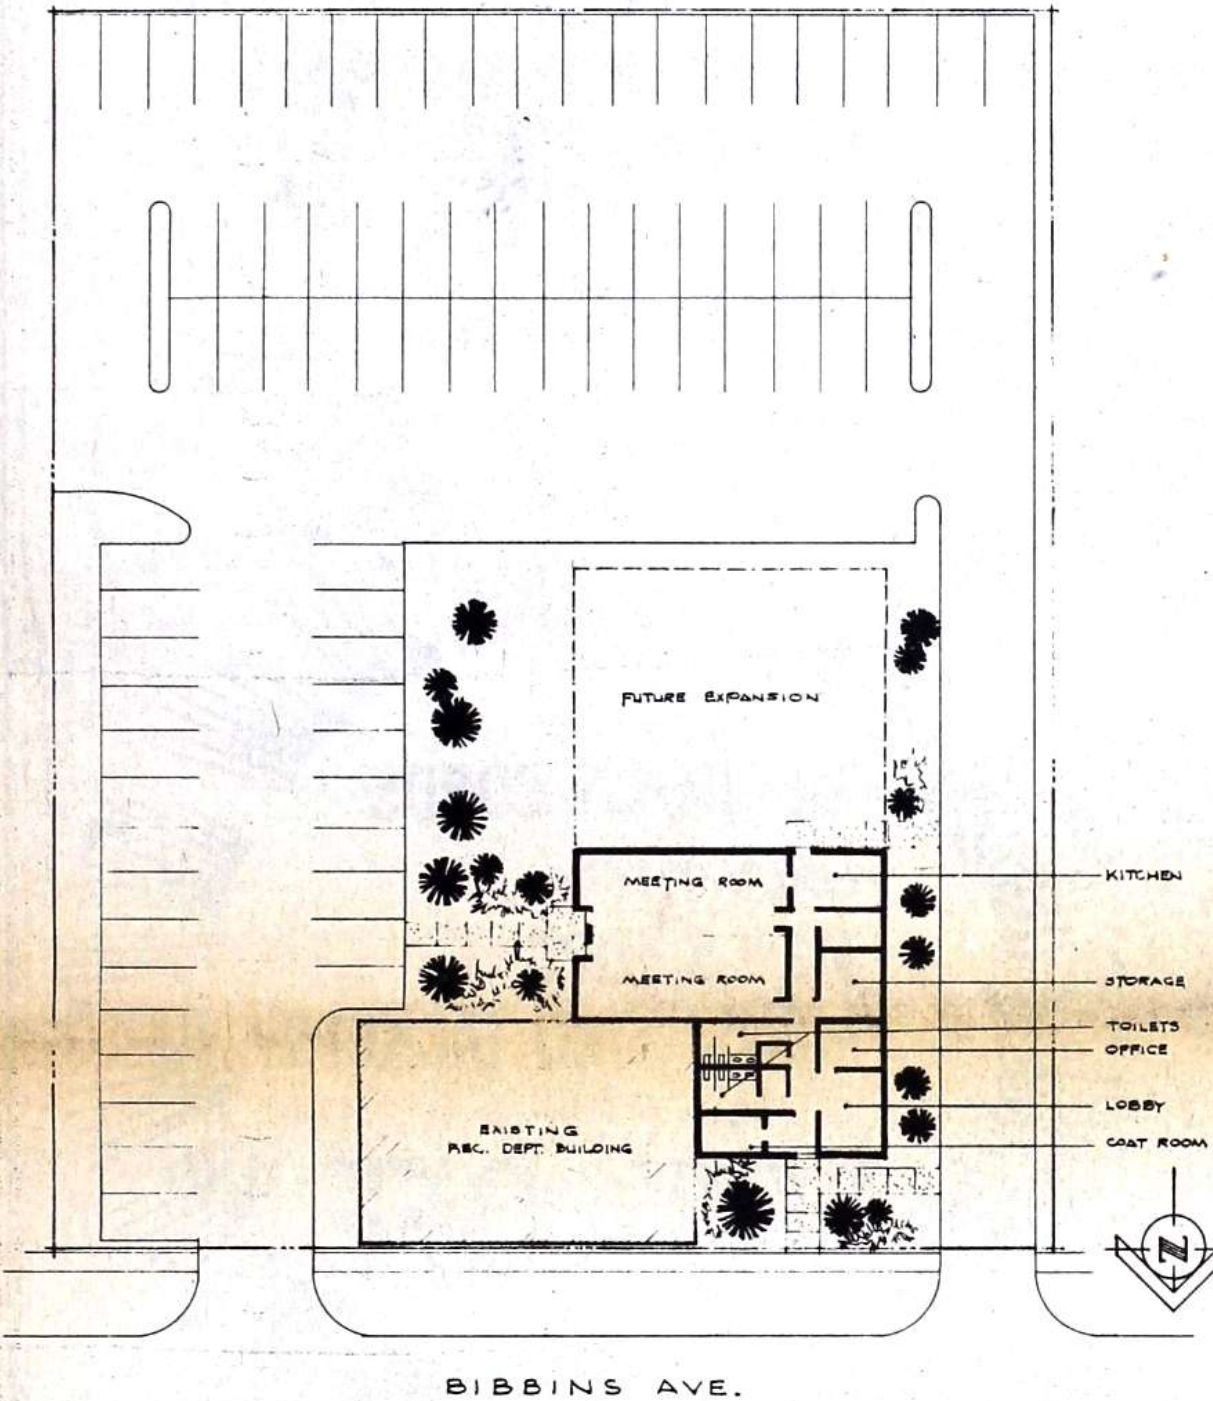

There are approximately 1,800 senior citizens in Romulus and activities relating to them have been of concern to those who studied the project.

In the works is the possibility that a senior citizen's 200-unit low-income high rise building may be built within walking distance of the new addition.

Romulus School Board voted at its last meeting to have its attorney look into the legal conditions of selling Romulus Elementary School.

Leo Sklar, appointed by city council to develop senior citizen housing in Romulus, wants to buy Romulus Elementary School, raze it and erect a senior citizen high-rise

The Senior Citizen Multi-Purpose Center will increase present building space by one-third and is expected to adequately service older citizens for a minimum of 10 years.

ML Legislative Conference attracts Romulus contingent

City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar led a small contingent of Romulus lawmakers to Lansing recently for the annual Michigan Municipal League's legislative conference.

Mayor Pro-Tem Mary Ann Banks and three-term Councilman Jimmie C. Raspberry joined with hundreds of their State counterparts, to discuss an extensive agenda, highlighted by the controversial public transportation package currently being debated in the capital.

Municipal legislators were greeted with a barrage of arguments, in support of the transportation bill, beginning with an appearance by William G. Milliken, followed by the House Minority Leader, Dennis O. Cawthorne (Muskegon), Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young and Representative William Ryan, (D) Detroit.

The subject has generated considerable coverage in the news media recently, largely due to Mayor Young's insistence that a subway be constructed in Detroit as an integral part of the package.

Speaking without notes, Young gave a persuasive argument in favor of the so-called Milliken-Ryan bill, citing facts and figures to strengthen his argument.

Insisting the package is not a Detroit plan, Young said that in 1979, the first year to receive tax money under the proposal, $18 million out of $56 million, or about 33 percent, will be designated for public transportation in Detroit. He said $13.2 million out of $54 million, 24 percent, will be used for capital improvements for the SEMTA region.

He assured his somewhat skeptical audience that State planners will place strict economic, engineering and environmental guidelines on every phase, before anything is constructed.

However, he insisted that a complete public transportation program for Southeast Michigan must include a rapid transit system of heavy rail (subway), of which approximately 7½ miles have been suggested for several routes in Detroit.

He said several cities in the U.S., including Atlanta, Buffalo and Miami, currently operate subways, although they contain fewer people than the Detroit metropolitan area.

He maintained that Southeast Michigan was dismally behind the rest of the country, contending the State was in better condition in 1880, when a person could travel from Detroit to Lansing and on to Grand Rapids by rail, something that can't be done today.

He concluded with a favorable account of SEMTA's (Southeast Michigan Transit Authority) transportation system, an opinion not shared by many listeners, including the Romulus representatives.

Although many timetables, promises and priorities have been quoted year after year to Romulus officials, nothing has been done to date to establish any kind of public transportation for the city. This has disappointed many Romulus residents.

This fact was just one of several subjects discussed in a private meeting with Senate Majority Leader William Faust, (D-Westland), prior to the conference.

Meeting for approximately two hours with the three Romulus officials, the senator listened and provided answers or promised assistance on a variety of projects, including: property tax reform, senior citizen housing, a new post office for Romulus, public transportation and renaming the airport.

Speaking for the group, Folmar commented, "Direct contact with our state leaders is the single most important aspect of the annual legislative conference."

"Senator Faust is now fully aware of our concerns and has personally assured us his help and assistance whenever possible," Folmar added.

Senator Faust introduced a bill that suggested the Metro Airport be re-named Romulus International Airport, after a similar meeting with Romulus Mayor William Oakley last fall.

After hearing the optimistic report, Mayor Oakley, who was unable to attend because of prior commitments, expressed his hope that, "several of the subjects discussed with the senator have moved a step closer to resolution as a result of this meeting."

"I regret I was unable to attend, and that other Council members were also unable to contribute to the valuable dialog," Oakley said.

It was announced that Mayor Oakley will exchange places with the Mayor of Manistee, Michigan (located on the west side of the State) during Michigan Week, May 22, 1978.

11th hour appeal made

Jarrette Simmons, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, made an 11th-hour appeal to State Social Services Director John Dempsey to prevent the closing of the county's Walter P. Reuther Extended Care Facility.

Simmons told Dempsey that a federal official's responses to questions posed by U.S. Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr. "indicate that the Michigan Department of Social Services has available to its options which would make it financially feasible for the County of Wayne to continue operation" of the facility.

She added that the responses to Riegle's questions also suggest "that 50 percent federal funding of an improved state reimbursement formula for patient care at the Reuther facility is possible."

Simmons also warned: "The point at which the closing will become irrevocable is fast approaching. The county's financial crisis precludes our continuing to underwrite the annual $3.5 million shortfall in state reimbursement."

The Reuther building is an ultra-modern, facility for long-term care and rehabilitation of chronic disease patients. It presently has some 180 patients. The facility, which opened in 1974, is part of the Wayne County General Hospital complex in Westland.

Simmons made her appeal to Dempsey in a letter with which she sent him copies of an exchange of letters between Riegle and Christopher B. Cohen, head of the regional office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) at Chicago.

Faced with a $13 million annual operating deficit last Nov. 30 after trying for several years to win full state reimbursement for patient care.

Closing was postponed for six months by a quickly-approved $1.7 million grant from the State Legislature.

Simmons told Dempsey that the legislative grant will be exhausted "on or shortly after May 31." She added: "The County Corporation Counsel will be filing the required plan for orderly transfer of patients with U.S. District Judge Ralph M. Freeman shortly. The judge has scheduled a hearing on the plan for April 17."

Simmons also warned Dempsey that placement of a number of Reuther facility patients in community nursing homes "will be a problem" because they "require a higher level of care than non-government extended care facilities are available to provide at the present reimbursement rates set by your department."

"In fact," Simmons added, "a number of these patients were referred to the Reuther facility by private nursing homes."

Simmons asked Dempsey to give "immediate consideration" to that fact "if you decide that none of the options listed by Mr. Cohen (for retaining the Reuther facility) are feasible."

In responding to Riegle's inquiry, Cohen suggested "the possibility that the state might be able to devise some objective criterion that would reasonably allow Reuther (and perhaps some other facilities) to constitute a separate class" for purposes of Medicaid reimbursement.

Young's letter attacks Free Press attitude

No one can say that Jay Young, Romulus public information officer, doesn't have a sense of humor.

An article appeared recently in the Sunday supplement of the Detroit Free Press, entitled "Detroit Magazine's Cure for Those Who Feel a Little Listless."

Among the lists printed were: the 10 largest employers, five tallest buildings, eight most unusual pets, and one entitled, "Five Most Popular Spots to Dump Dead Bodies."

According to an unnamed source, they are: 1) Metro Airport "Long-timers" lot. 2) Hines Park. 3) Anywhere in Romulus. 4) Belle Isle. 5) Abandoned HUD buildings.

In a rebuttal letter sent to Detroit Magazine's editor, Young criticized the Free Press for "a blatant disregard for the feelings and pride of the Romulus residents by irresponsibly dredging up hackneyed stereotypes that degrade and belittle a city that is attempting to project a positive image to both its neighbors residents."

He concluded his letter with a suggestion that the paper omitted one very important list, entitled: "The Eight Most Popular Reasons People Take Detroit Magazine."

Young suggested the reasons are: 1) For house-training puppies. 2) Wrapping fish. 3) Flying kites. 4) To place in bottom of bird cages. 5) For an excuse to waste time reading silly articles. 6) For a good reason to subscribe to the Detroit News. 7) It comes with the TV Guide. 8) To use for insulating your walls.

Wonder if Detroit Magazine will print Young's list?

Alexander the Great

Alexander the Great was a superb, noble, military conqueror, who was king of Macedonia from 336 to 323 B.C. His many leadership qualities made many proclaim his name as the highest tribute to his honor.

Because of this famous king and his personal heritage, Walter Stevanovich named his restaurant after Alexander the Great when he took over the business, located at 34733 W. Warren, just east of Wayne Road in Westland, last September.

Walter was born in Yugoslavia some 45 years ago.

He learned some cooking techniques and left the old country when he was 19. He settled in Noranda, Canada, 400 miles northeast of Montreal in the early '50s. The town had a 25,000 population, and his business was named the "Cozy Corner."

Walter expanded his cooking knowledge with on-the-job training. He had met his wife in the old country and in 1954 came to Detroit, where he married his childhood sweetheart, Dobrinka, in September 1954.

In 1957, Walter and Dobrinka operated the Oakwood Bakery in southwest Detroit and in 1959 owned and operated Bartz Bakery on Telegraph Road in Dearborn.

Although Walter had been in the United States legally, he chose to become a citizen and was sworn in as a U.S. citizen in 1961.

In 1974 Walter and Dobrinka decided to take some time off and returned to visit the place of their birth, Vratnica, a small village in Yugoslavia, and to visit all their relatives.

Returning to the United State in 1975, they decided to come to Westland and opened the Capital Coney Island on Ford Road just west of Wayne Road, until the opportunity came along in September 1977 that the Macedonian couple purchased the original "Joseph's" and renamed the business "Alexander the Great."

Walter has been in the business some 20 years. His wife came from a large family where some 25 people lived in the same house and she quickly learned to prepare food in quantity the Stevanovich Family has maintained close ties in the business, with son-in-law Tom Tomovski acting as general manager, their daughter, Tom's wife Pauline, acts as hostess and selects the special sauces and salad dressings, as well as oversees the kitchen needs.

Walter and Dobrinka have four children — Melisa, 23, Pauline, 9, Danny 21 and Mickey 14 — and also have four grandchildren — Boban, 3, Zana, 18 months, Dejan, 4 months, and Julia, 2 months.

Walter is a handsome man, with a delightful

Autism meet will gather its experts

Both the medical and educational aspects of autism will be the subject of a three day institute that will bring the nation's leading experts to Wayne County Friday through Sunday.

Cooperatively sponsored by the American Academy of Child Psychiatry and the Wayne County Intermediate School District, the institute will examine the means of diagnosing autism as well as the best means of educating those who are afflicted.

The institute has been endorsed by the Michigan Council of Child Psychiatry and the Departments of Child Psychiatry of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University. Medical doctors attending can receive 14 hours credit approved by the American Medical Association.

The medical section will be headed by Dr. Edward Ritvo, professor of child psychiatry at the School of Medicine of the University of California at Los Angeles, a noted author in the field of autism. The education section will be led by Dr. James Greiner, assistant superintendent for special education, Wayne County Intermediate School District. The intermediate district has operated the state's only school devoted solely to the education of the autistic child for the last four years and the program has been nationally recognized.

Registration for the conference can be made through the intermediate school district, 33500 Van Born, Wayne, or at the Ramada Inn at the Detroit Metropolitan Airport, where all sessions will be held.

Advance registration for medical personnel is $125 for the full conference or $75 per day and $25 more at the door. For educators and others, pre-registration is $30 for the full institute or $20 per day and $10 more at the door.

Show to look at Vietnam after 'fall'

Since the fall of Saigon in April 1975, American-shave had virtually no opportunity to see what has happened to Vietnam.

Now, three American television journalists have returned from an extensive tour of the country and their report can be seen on "Vietnam: Picking Up the Pieces" April 27 at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

In December 1977, Jon Alpert, Keiko Tsuno and Karen Ranucci became the first American television journalists allowed in Vietnam since the war's end. For more than a month they traveled through northern and southern sections of the country visiting the cities and places whose names became familiar with Americans during the years of fighting—Hanoi, Saigon, Haiphong.

In the north, they discovered a country that remains largely undeveloped. Alpert examines the effects of the massive American bombing, the north's economic structure and how underdevelopment worked to North Vietnam's advantage during the war.

In the south they found much of Saigon (now Ho Chi Minh City) intact, including its serious problems. There are one million unemployed. There are other social problems left from the war including prostitution, drug addiction, slum shantytowns, cholera and venereal disease.

Also seen are Saigon's black market, which still thrives on the sale of American razor blades and Johnny Walker Red; the Chinese district of the city; and the annual Christmas celebrations.

Laffs winner

A teacher's response to a young student's artistic efforts — "When I asked you to draw a picture of a fruit, I meant this apple, not our principal!" — has won Al Victor Tupakavich of Westland top place in the ninth week of Associated Newspapers' Lottery Laffs Contest. Tupakavich, owner of Victor's Music Store in Westland, won 100 state lottery tickets for his entry.

But it's not the first time that he's had success in Lottery Laffs. Tupakavich was a seventh place winner as well as a fourth place winner, the latter producing winning lottery tickets that has placed him in contention in the $1 million lottery drawing. — Presenting Tupakavich is Greg Morrison (right), ANP sales and operations manager. — ANP photo.

Bergman original to air in entirety April 22 on 56

Ingmar Bergman's original television series, "Scenes From a Marriage," returns to Channel 56 as part of "Film Festival with Paul Winter" April 22 at 10 p.m. The six-part series will be shown in two three-hour segments with the final three parts shown April 29 at 10 p.m.

Starring Liv Ullmann and Erland Josephson as the couple whose marriage is under examination, and Bibi Andersson and Jan Malmsjö as their friends, "Scenes From a Marriage" follows the marriage over a 10-year period from placid innocence to confrontation, separation, divorce and semi-reunion.

A gripping and eloquent drama in its condensed version shown in movie theaters throughout the world, in its entirety "Scenes" has been described as a remarkable social document, a universal guide to the psychological stresses which test social relationships today.

"Scenes From a Marriage" was awarded Best Film, Best Actress (Liv Ullmann), Best Screenplay and Best Supporting Actress (Bibi Andersson) by the National Society of Film Critics.

Bergman himself was particularly pleased by the reception "Scenes" received in Sweden.

He said: "I live on a small island in the Baltic sea, with mostly farmers and fishermen.

For the first time they really liked something I had done." Bergman is quoted as saying that it took him three months to film the piece, four months to write it, and a lifetime to experience it.

Americans lost $1 billion to mail fraud in fiscal '77

American consumers lost an estimated $1 billion to mail fraud and misrepresentation by mail in fiscal 1977, officer in charge, Wayne Lamerson, of the Romulus Post Office said.

In order to heighten public awareness of the problem, Monday through April 15 has been designated the third annual Postal Consumer Protection Week by Postmaster General William F. Bolger.

"The public must be constantly on guard against fantastic claims and get-rich-quick schemes," Lamerson said. "The nation's best defense against unscrupulous con artists using the mails is an informed public."

The Postal Service actively investigates mail fraud and false representation by mail, and assists with mail-order and service problems.

Lamerson stressed that the overwhelming majority of companies making up the $60-billion mail-order industry are honest and dedicated to customer satisfaction. But, as in many other industries, a few operators are out to bilk the public.

"Schemes directed at consumers are limited only by the imagination of the con artist," Lamerson said. "They know many people are willing to invest their hard-earned money on offers which sound too good to be true."

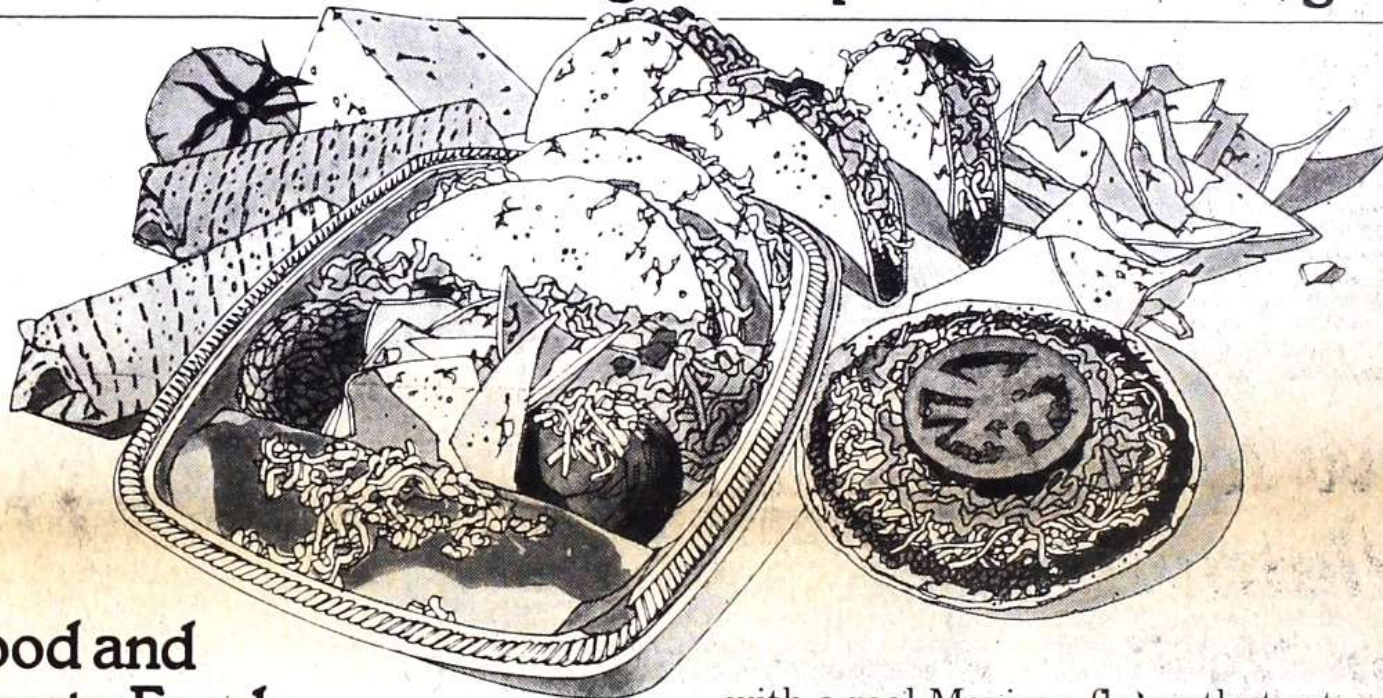

Typical examples of mail frauds and false representations by mail include work-at-home schemes, phony franchises, miraculous "cures" for a variety of illnesses, weight reducing plans with no proven medical value, and a variety of investment offers such as buying land through the mail.

Businesses also become victims of mail frauds and false representations, Lamerson said. "Companies pay out millions of dollars each year for imaginary or useless business directories, phony invoices and contributions to non-existent organizations."

Editorial opinions

Single National Tax a good idea

With the deadline for filing 1977 Federal income tax returns upon us, we feel that it is appropriate to comment on the new forms that the IRS has adopted for the avowed purpose of making the process simpler.

Most taxpayers will find that in spite of the tax cuts of the past two years, their tax bill will once again be higher than last year, but if you use the short form, you will probably find that the forms are indeed easier to use.

This year, for the first time, the tax computation that had been necessary for most taxpayers, has been eliminated. The new tax tables have been designed to cover a wider range of individual situations.

But, once you deviate from the short form, and-or are required to wander into the maze of supplemental forms and tax schedules, again you are in no-man's land.

Except for the gifted, the process of filing your tax return will require a considerable dose of mental dexterity. More often than not, the taxpayer will have to figure his return several times before he is able to fully get the drift of the process.

Notwithstanding the fact, that today the Federal income tax law has been designed to do more than simply collect each citizen's fair share, we feel that the entire process is becoming far too complex for the average person.

We at Associated Newspapers would suggest that the government return to the main goal of the income tax law, that is to collect the revenue for the operation of the government, and leave out of that law the many social programs that have been included until now.

Within today's tax law, are provisions for equalizing income, encouraging the growth of families, subsidizing business, and on and on.

We feel that it is time for the Federal government to remove politics from the collection and distribution of income taxes. And, the best way to accomplish that would be to levy a single tax on a graduated scale that would apply equally to each individual taxpayer, as well as business or industry operating within, or outside, of the country.

The single tax, that would apply to all, should replace all existing Federal, state or local tax laws currently on the books.

Such a tax, would eliminate forever the multitude of special interests that are currently singled out for special treatment by existing law. Everyone in the country would be content in the knowledge that everyone else is paying exactly the same tax.

Gone would be the interest and local tax deductions. Gone would be the Oil Depletion Allowance. Gone would be the deductions for dependents, and gone would be the business depreciation allowance.

In addition to eliminating the confusing and overlapping tax system we are currently saddled with, a single tax would better enable the citizens of this country to be more aware of the costs of government.

According to recent data, the average taxpayer in this country spends about 27 percent of his income on taxes. Also, according to recent statistics, business and industry have been contributing something less than 27 percent.

A single tax makes sense. But, because it makes sense, it is not likely to gain much support from the lawmakers in Washington who have characteristically placed a greater emphasis on the needs of special interest, rather than taxpayer interest.

A single tax applied evenly and consistently across the face of America is a good idea, an idea whose time has not yet come.

Belleville Lake requires vigilance

With another summer recreation season approaching, the citizens of Belleville and surrounding areas are again wondering if their lake will be suitable for sports activities.

Belleville Lake was closed last summer after county officials found excessive levels of dangerous pollution, and a replay of last summer's closing is likely unless concrete measures are taken now to assure that a repeat of the massive dump of raw sewage upstream from the lake is not repeated.

While it is unlikely that last year's pollution, and subsequent closing of the lake resulted from anything other than human errors, it is not enough to sit back and simply hope that history is not repeated again.

We urge everyone involved in the struggle to keep Belleville Lake free of pollution to maintain their struggle. We urge the county to more effectively monitor the effluents into the lake and the Huron River. In order to eliminate the potential threat of new sewage dumps into the lake or river, it is first necessary to identify the potential source of those spills.

Once located and monitored, potential offenders should be strongly warned that they will be held responsible for the subsequent damage to the lake and the businessmen who have come to depend on the visitors to the lake for a substantial portion of their income.

We realize full well that the city of Belleville itself is a potential offender of the lake integrity. The storm sewer system scheduled for completion this year should eliminate to a large extent that problem.

We hope other communities, that may contribute to the problems of Belleville Lake, will act quickly to solve the problem.

Belleville Lake is a natural resource that deserves our best effort to protect.

It is time to make, and continue, that effort.

Holder in Due Course

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

There has been a movement of consumer interest bills in the Legislature, one of which would come to the aid of a car buyer who purchases a "lemon" and cannot get it set right.

That bill has won both House and Senate approval.

Auto dealers frequently sell installment payment contracts to banks and other financial institutions so that the dealers do not have to wait until all payments have been made in order to receive full payment for the vehicle. The financial institution pays the dealer for the contract and collects the installments.

This is satisfactory all the way around unless there is something wrong with the car and the dealer does not satisfy the buyer's demands to correct the defect.

The buyer then has no way to force the dealer to make repairs, since the dealer is out of the picture financially. If the buyer attempts to withhold payments to force the dealer to take action, the financial institution is likely to repossess the auto. The buyer is not even able to present arguments as to why he should withhold the payments.

The only course of action for the buyer is to sue the dealer, which can be costly, time-consuming and not necessarily successful.

The federal Trade Commission ruled last year that any holder of a consumer credit contract is subject to all the defense which the debtor could assert against the actual seller of the goods or services.

However, this rule does not really solve the problem since the FTC is not equipped with the resources to handle local enforcement of its rule. The bill approved by the House and Senate would provide local officials with authority to apply the rule as it relates to auto buyers.

There is already existing state law which applies the rule to retail installment sales and home improvement financing.

The bill would allow the buyer of a faulty car to defend himself against the claims of the holder of the installment contract if he withholds payments in an attempt to have the car repaired. The buyer would be able to explain in court why he had stopped payment.

In its recent approval of the House bill, the Senate added an amendment to require that the withheld payments be placed in an escrow account until the claim is litigated between the buyer and the holder of the contract.

The House has approved a bill to protect consumers who take advantage of the trend toward what are known as electronic funds transfers. This developing system of making retail purchases or paying bills will allow to consumers to make payment by presenting the businessman with a simple plastic card, known as a "debit card." The merchant will use the card to automatically transfer funds from the customer's bank account to his bank account, by way of a computer network. It will be quick and easy and no cash, checks or credit cards will change hands.

Although electronic fund transfers (EFT) promise advantages for consumers, retailers and financial institutions, they also hold the potential for major abuses. The legislation approved by the House and sent to the Senate would provide for the type of reasonable regulation needed to prevent many problems.

Consumers would be protected against unauthorized use of their funds by making financial institutions that issue EFT cards fully responsible for any misuse of funds, both by their own employees and by persons who steal the cards.

The consumer's financial privacy would be protected. The number of persons with access to information on a person's financial status would be strictly limited, and under no circumstances would a retailer be able to find out anything except whether there are sufficient funds in an account to cover a purchase.

The EFT debit cards could be used in any store that has capacity to handle them. A retailer with an EFT "terminal" would have to accept cards issued by any bank, savings and loan or credit union in Michigan.

The legislation also contains provisions for reversing a transfer of funds if merchandise is purchased, then returned.

There has also been House approval of a series of bills which would place a 180-day moratorium on cancellations of auto and homeowners insurance, with certain exceptions.

These bills, which are now in the Senate, are stop-gap measures to protect consumers' rights to certain types of essential insurance while the Legislature works out a comprehensive insurance redlining package.

The 180-day moratorium on auto insurance cancellations, refusals or alterations would not apply in cases of gross violations, such as drunk driving. Nor would it apply in cases of non-payments of premiums for auto or homeowner insurance.

Inability to obtain essential insurance at fair rates has become a problem for many because the property is in a poor section of town.

Both the House and Senate have approved a bill to allow non-Michigan residents who buy a car from a private owner in Michigan to obtain a special 30-day registration which permits the car to be driven legally to another state to obtain a permanent registration.

Temporary registrations of this type are presently available only if the non-resident buys the car from a Michigan dealer.

Editor's Log

'It's Really Simple' (IRS)

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

The Lord giveth, and the taxman taketh away.

Once again, it is that time of year when we are forced to endure the trauma of giving to Uncle Sam, what he says is his.

This year I had made a resolution to file my tax return promptly, rather than waiting to the last minute as was my customary procedure.

If the streets of Hell are truly lined with good intentions, I had just added to that roadside litter.

I once again found myself with the April deadline nearing, my desk a cluttered mess of receipts, mute testimony to the many false starts that I had made in the endeavor, but which had led to frustration short of fruition.

With little time left to accomplish the gigantic task, I sequestered myself in the office and began my agony.

First, the W-2 forms had to be found. I vividly recall many trips to the boss's office to protest my low salary, but with the W-2 form in hand, I was loath to concede that I had really made that much money last year. There most certainly was a mistake.

A similar situation had existed when I had protested the assessed valuation of the new home that I had moved into. For many months, I had been telling my friends about the great deal I had gotten on the place, that it was really worth much more than I had into it, but after seeing that the city assessor had shared my opinion relative to the value of the place, I couldn't believe that it was really worth that much. I was shortly to relieve that experience with the completion of my 1040's.

The new 'simplified' tax forms, temporarily set me back. Questioning my native ability to decipher the government's bureaucratized (that language that only GS-15 and ups could master), I concluded that maybe the Fed's really didn't want me to understand what I was doing.

First, it was necessary for me to determine if it would be better to file jointly with my wife, or separately.

To accomplish that trick, it is necessary to complete two trial 1040's, one for the wife, and one for me. Then, you add the total tax due from each form.

Next, you must then fill out a 1040 to figure the tax if you file jointly.

By comparing the two totals, you can make the decision on the route that you should take that will cost you the least.

Having decided that I would be better off filing jointly with my wife, I then had to make a couple of other decisions.

Since I don't make enough money to invest in the stock market, I didn't concern myself with the $400 stock dividend exclusion, or the capital gains forms. I could also forget about having to use schedules 4563, 5544, 5405, or section 72(m)(5) penalty tax. Thank heavens!

But, I would have to fill out Schedule A in order to list my deductions.

Fortunately, this section is pretty much straight forward. You only have to list your deductions on the right line, in the right box. But, there is one area that is frustrating.

The Fed's ask you to list one half of your medical premiums on line 1, and then subtract 1 percent of the amount on line 31, form 1040.

You might have figured as much, the answer always comes out zero. About this time, you have gained new respect for the folks down at the IRS. Only they would be able to make an otherwise intelligent person attempt to get something out of nothing.

The final shock comes when you have finally completed all of the listed deductions, and you turn to the tax tables.

A moment of sheer suspense. Will I have to pay, or will I have a refund coming?

Only the new 'simplified' forms could hold you in such suspense.

Pasting the sticker on the front of the 1040, I slip it into the envelope, and lick the flap.

It is finished for another year. Once again, I had waited to the last moment, once again, I can appreciate the cost of big government.

But, in the final analysis, while my tax bill continues to increase every year, in spite of all of the tax cuts that Washington has passed, the cost is reasonable when compared to the alternatives.

What other country in the world could pay an army of accountants salaries that they would never get in private enterprise, for the sole purpose of simplifying my tax return?

Replies to editorial

To the Editor:

I feel I must reply to your recent editorial.

I am concerned with your position against the City Council, in their denying Campbell Development a 50 percent tax break.

The Council went on record that evening as stating, their denial in this case was not to sound an alarm, that Romulus was against any further Industrial Development. The Council made that very clear to the audience, and any future investors.

The problem the city faced was not receiving $63,000 but only $13,000 for the City Treasury, the balance going to the school and county. Additionally the project would have required at the developers own admission, $130,000 for sewer, and probably in excess of $200,000, only to benefit: them, 69 acres for International Salt, and the Wayne County Airport for 100 acres. Certainly an investment of this much tax money, to receive $13,000 could be better spent, elsewhere in the city.

I feel that the Council had its "act together" and suggest that you insist the Administration get "its act together" and fully research, document and present all proposals of this nature to the people and Council, in better fashion than was shown.

When the people of this City can be told honestly how and where the Industrial base is helping their tax load, I along with many others will support any increase to our tax base.

Again, don't be so anxious to knock the Council, as it is the Administration that should inform the citizens of the "ramifications of such action".

Return fire

To the Editor:

One can only say that Mr. Gregory is taking literary license when he says buck shot rained on his roof, that a dog was hit by pellets and little children barely missed being shot.

This is just one small example of how the anti gun — anti hunting group works.

Buck shot on the roof? never happened! A dog to be hit by bird shot would have to been swimming in the lake.

As for children being in danger? Sheer nonsense, they would be in more danger from rice being thrown at a wedding, assuming that bird shot could even hit the area mentioned.

Of course to some the tooth fairy is real.

Reflections

Freedom fighter

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

It was one of those days when the faucets began dripping for no reason; the teflon pans stuck to the foods, and my youngest kid got stuck in the clothes chute. That's when the older kid came bursting through the back door. "Where's Dad?" he shouted, grabbing up the pan of spaghetti and pouring it down his throat. "Hey," I said. "That spaghetti is for dinner." "I know," he said. "I'm eating my dinner. Where's Dad?" Dad came bounding through the same door, which saved me from answering. "What the hell is that car doing all torn apart on my front lawn?" he yelled. "That's Jim's car. His dad won't let him fix it at his house," my kid slurped through his spaghetti sauce. Then wiping his mouth he said, "Dad, I've got to talk to you. I want to move out of here. Jim and I are getting an apartment. This house suffocates me. I need my freedom." Grabbing a loaf of bread he slapped on a package of lunch meat and took a big bite. "You know what I mean?" "I can't hear you very well with your mouth full," his dad said. "I thought I heard you say you wanted to move out and get an apartment with Jim." "Yeah, that's right," my boy said, throwing his leg over the kitchen table, the better to catch the crumbs. "I need my independence. I need to feel free. I wouldn't be bugging you and Mom all the time. It's an unloosing of the apron strings. I feel like a bird in a cage here at home. I WANT my independence." "Well," said his father. "That was a pretty good speech considering it came out of a mouth full of bread. Tell me, does Jim need his independence, too?" "Yep," said my kid. "Then tell him to get that gol-damned car off my front yard." "Aww dad. That car has got to be fixed so he can keep his job. You wouldn't want him to lose his job would you?" "Where is he going to fix it after you move to your apartment?" his father asked. "Well, gee," said my kid. "I'm not going to quit being your son. I'll come home sometimes! Especially when we need to fix the car or something." With this he took a handful of cookies and crunched them into his mouth. His father sat down and looked at him. He shook his head from side to side and then he cleared his throat and asked, "What are you going to live on? You don't have a job. Does Jim's job make enough for the two of you?" "Nope," said my kid. "Then what are you going to live on?" "That's simple. I'm going to live on my allowance."

Health Beat

'She's no lady, she's my doctor...'

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Her name is Bonnie Renfro. When she signs her signature, she adds the initials MD as a suffix to her last name; she's a physician in the Annapolis Hospital emergency service.

As a female in a profession which has traditionally been dominated and hence controlled by males, she has faced some unusual problems.

"I can remember one time when I was practicing in Ann Arbor at University Hospital when it was necessary for me to perform a somewhat delicate procedure on a male patient.

"He was uncooperative, resistant, and downright rude. His words were to the effect that no woman was going to examine him. I asserted myself immediately and reminded him that I was a licensed physician and surgeon, that he was my patient, and that as soon as he recognized these facts we could get on with the business of treating him.

"That approach worked, and the experience helped to shape some of my attitudes toward medicine."

She said that she was convinced that there are two principal problems today in medicine: Failure of the physician to communicate with the patient, and the simple fact that most physicians have outrageous handwriting.

"My success with the problem male patient in Ann Arbor taught me that once reasonable lines of communication have been established, both the patient and the physician are more comfortable.

"Now, when I meet a patient for the first time, I introduce myself as Dr. Renfro and open the dialogue in a professional, but friendly manner. If the patient has any questions, I answer those questions honestly and answer them in a way in which the patient can understand what I'm saying.

"I'm afraid that sometimes we in medicine take ourselves too seriously, and rather than communicating with people we only confuse or frighten a person with our specialized vocabulary which is generally only understood by other professionals."

Dr. Renfro is from Winterpark, Florida. She said that her father, a patent attorney, and her mother, a psychiatric social worker, strongly encouraged her in her quest for a medical degree.

"Because I was never told that women are not supposed to be doctors, I've always felt that I belonged in the profession. The only anxiety I really felt was between the time I applied to Michigan's medical school and was finally accepted."

That time interval was six months, and during that six months, Dr. Renfro was a practicing speech pathologist — her undergraduate degree is in speech pathology.

She graduated in 1975 as an MD and did almost a 3-year residency in general surgery. In July of this year, Dr. Renfro will return to University Hospital and begin a 4-year residency in ears, nose, and throat surgery (ENT).

She did her first surgical rotation at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland, and it was "at that point in my training that I knew I wanted to be a surgeon. In surgical intervention, there are tangible returns; patient feedback is generally positive, especially in any type of reconstructive surgery."

In her medical class — she started in 1971 — there were 12 percent females. Today, there are approximately 25 percent females in Michigan's medical school.

"Attitudes have changed, and today young high school female students are being counseled and encouraged to explore medicine as a possible career. I think that's a good thing. At the risk of sounding like a female Chauvinist, I'd like to say that I think women have something special to offer to the surgical field. After all, we are taught to be warm and to be good listeners. In my judgment, those are two essential attributes of a good surgeon.

"Medicine," she concluded, "is a discipline which appeals to one's sense of organization. One way in which medical practitioners can express that organization is as translators of technology."

As we concluded the interview, Dr. Renfro had been called to suture a youngster who had gashed his head, a staff nurse stopped and said, "Russ, you ought to let Dr. Renfro write your column — she's the only doctor I've ever known whose handwriting is legible!"

Bald Eagle Speaks

'One every minute'

By BOB AMEEN

F. T. Barnum is often quoted as once having said that "A sucker is born every minute."

In modern-day America, that statement certainly fits the picture when applied to many citizens who shop for a multitude of items, ranging from groceries to automobiles.

The recent energy crisis has prompted the federal government to put the pressure on automobile makers to manufacture smaller cars, the idea being that they will burn less fuel.

After massive re-tooling, Detroit's auto builders have come out with various models weighing up to a thousand pounds less than their predecessors. It only makes good sense that if several hundred pounds are left out, that less raw materials are being used in their manufacture, and that the finished product should cost less.

But, auto makers in keeping with past tradition, boosted the retail prices on these smaller cars, evidently feeling the consumer would buy them anyway.

At the supermarket or drug store, many shoppers fail to really "shop." The neglect to compare prices of different size packages or bottles of what they want, grabbing the first container that comes into view.

A few seconds of checking might have saved them a considerable sum had they purchased a larger size or a different brand. But, with most making good salaries, they take the course of least resistance.

In the area of car repairs, the amount of money that can be saved is almost astronomical. When the time comes for one's car to have a complete exhaust system installed, many drive to the nearest muffler shop and have one of the "lifetime" units put on. They think they're saving money over what the dealer would charge them.

In most instances, they're right, but there's a still better way. Drive to a auto parts discount store when specials are on, buy a complete exhaust system and then pay a gasoline station or private mechanic the labor charges for installation.

A quick calculation will show the average motorist that he can save a lot of greenbacks over what the drive-in muffler shops charge. Also, the auto parts store will give the same "lifetime" guarantee on the muffler.

Most of the time, a little extra time when shopping can add up to a lot of dollars saved at the end of the year.

Chamber Chatter

About those taxes

By RICHARD L. LESHER
President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Would you be surprised to hear that: — The "richest" half of America's taxpayers pay 93 percent of the personal income tax?

— Loopholes and fringe benefits are of most value to the low-to-middle income group?

— Americans owe more to their government than a medieval serf owed to his overlord?

It's all true. These are just a few of the iconoclastic revelations contained in a mind-blowing article on tax policy appearing in the March, 1978, edition of Harper's magazine.

The article was written by Paul Craig Roberts, who is both college professor and Senate staffer. His simple thesis is that we are all being taken by a parasitic government in unholy alliance with good-hearted tax "reformers" who place their faith in a few simplistic slogans without ever checking the figures.

Mr. Roberts first demolishes the myth that the low income group is most heavily taxed, while the rich escape.

All you have to do, he points out, is examine the data published by the Internal Revenue Service. You learn that taxpayers in the bottom 50 percent, by income, pay only 7 percent of the personal income tax, while those in the top 50 percent pay 93 percent.

Is this a fluke caused by heavy taxes on the low-middle group? No. The highest 25 percent pays 72 percent of the tax. The highest 10 percent pays almost half — 49 percent. And the highest 1 percent pays 19 percent. This hardly sounds like soaking the poor for the benefit of the rich.

Furthermore, he says, if you counted untaxed aid to the "poor," such as food stamps, housing subsidies, and other forms of welfare, you would find that "their real income exceeds that of many taxpayers."

Tax "cuts" to "help the poor" are popular with the government for two reasons, he says. First, because the poor don't pay any taxes, so it costs the government nothing. And second, because inflation soon moves people out of the lower brackets and into the range where they do owe taxes.

Over the last 10 years, wages have just kept even with inflation. But wages plus taxes have not, because "the government's revenues don't simply rise by the amount of the inflation, they rise by 1.65 times the rate of inflation" thanks to the progressive tax code.

Worst of all, says Roberts, those who feed at the public trough are not even worried by the prospect of taxes so high that they wreck the economy, because that would call for new government aid programs and more government employees to run them.

What can be done? A flat, across-the-board tax cut large enough to compensate for inflation plus the push into higher brackets would help temporarily.

Another possible solution being discussed is "indexing" the tax code for inflation, so taxes remain the same on the same purchasing power. Still another is a constitutional limit on the total amount of national income that may be taken by the government.

These alternatives are worth a lot of thought and discussion. One thing I can guarantee you: If we don't save ourselves, no one else will do it for us.

On wastewater control system

Commissioners urge EPA to act 'swiftly'

The Wayne County Board of Public Works has urged federal officials to "act swiftly and approve the construction of the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System to abate serious water pollution problems that have reached the crisis stage."

The appeal was made by Wayne County Commissioner William Sullivan, chairman of the Board of Public Works, at a public meeting in Trenton sponsored by the Region V office of the U.S. Environmental and Protection Agency (EPA).

"Sewage disposal problems are critical in the 18 communities that make up the Huron Valley District," Sullivan told the EPA officials. "Even as we talk, recreation areas are being severely polluted, sewage is backing up into family basements, building permits are being denied and people are drawing water in jugs from their town hall because their well water is contaminated and unfit to drink."

The proposed system would serve 14 western and downriver Wayne County communities, plus Walled Lake, Commerce Township and Novi in Oakland County and South Rockwood in Monroe County. Sumpter Township in Wayne County has experienced contaminated wells, resulting in a small outbreak of hepatitis, he said.

Sullivan said EPA approval was essential in order to obtain 75 percent federal funding for the project which will cost a minimum of $165 million to construct. At stake is at least $125 million in federal funds.

He said the EPA has reneged twice on commitments to complete its Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), which involves assessing the social, economic and environmental impact of the proposed Huron Valley System and approximately four alternative proposals for sewage disposal.

"For every month that the project is delayed, the cost goes up an additional $2 million due to inflation," Sullivan pointed out. "This sewage disposal project is an urgent priority. We strongly urge you to reexamine your needs and projected deadlines for the completion of the EIS."

Sullivan said a recent EPA letter informed the Department of Public Works that a promised October completion date could not be met because it was necessary to analyze 1977 census forms. He said the Board of Public Works and its consultants would cooperate fully in securing the necessary data.

In addition to urging swift action by the EPA, Sullivan made a strong case for approval of the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, as the most "cost-effective alternative" and the one that would provide the "boardest water quality improvement."

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has issued a "notice of intent to deny" future sanitary sewer permits in seven downriver communities — which, in effect, amounts to a building ban. If growth is stymied, communities cannot collect revenues that has been counted on — thus driving up taxes for present taxpayers. A modern sewer system would change that.

—Construction of the HVS would result in the greatest return of our federal tax dollars for expenditure on local labor and materials. Some 8,000 jobs will be created during construction — providing a great boost to the Southeastern Michigan economy.

Participating communities include the townships of Brownstown, Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Sumpter, Van Buren and Commerce; the cities of Flat Rock, Gibraltar, Northville, Rockwood, Romulus, Trenton, Woodhaven, Novi, Walled Lake and South Rockwood.

Some safe water

"Our well water is so bad, that the cream curdles in the coffee." So said Mrs. Lillian Harris, who with her husband Lovett fill up bottles of water at the township hall outdoor faucet. The Harris', of Wear Road in Sumpter Township, said their food turns brown and black when they boil it in the water and "plain ole navy beans won't get cooked, even if you boil 'em all day long". Watching the Harris' during their recent visit to the township hall was Township board trustee Noah Folks. Mrs. Harris says she and her husband have been hauling water home for 14 years.

Colonel Harland Sanders recently showed his franchisee Ted E. Hooten (right) and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hooten, all of Romulus, where it all started—the Corbin, Ky., restaurant where Sanders developed and first served his secret recipe chicken. The Hootens were among 3,000 people from around the world who joined the Colonel in New Orleans recently for the Kentucky Fried Chicken system's annual convention. Hooten's store in Romulus is part of a 6,000-store system that sells some five billion pieces of chicken a year.

For themselves, property

Disabled, elderly get help

Because there are some people who are unable to maintain either the welfare of themselves or their property due to a handicap or their age, there is someone in the community who can and will help.

Communities United For Action (CUFA), a community action agency serving low-income residents in out-Wayne County, including Inkster has a program specifically tailored for those people to meet needs in the area of minor home repair and maintenance, homemaking and personal hygiene.

Known as SHIP-SHAPE (Seniors and Handicapped Intervention Program-Special Home Assistance Project Employment), the program is funded by Title VI special projects through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) and through the Wayne County Office of Manpower.

It is limited to persons who are 60 years of age and older or handicapped and living on a fixed and limited incomes.

Once eligible recipients are identified, SHIP-SHAPE crew workers can begin performing a number of helpful tasks for them under the supervision of the project coordinator, Mrs. Johnnie Cofield.

The crews' energy is utilized to get such things done as minor home repair and maintenance, minor plastering, painting, yard work, snow removal, housekeeping, shopping, meal preparation, laundry, bathing, dressing and wall washing.

SHIP-SHAPE is not involved in structural alterations, plumbing (except minor drain clogs and washer replacement), roof repair, wiring or furnace cleaning and repair.

The project is helpful in two ways. It provides employment for people who gain or improve practical skills while they seek out and provide help to people in their own communities. Crew workers are 18 years of age and older, MESC certified and meet CETA Title VI guidelines.

SHIP-SHAPE services also are available to renters in cases where such services are not included in the landlord-tenant contract. Project crews, however, are not involved in major undertakings that increase the property value of the renters' premises but will, for example, do minor work for tenants supplied with materials from their landlord. In cases, for example, where the landlord supplied paint for senior or handicapped tenants, a SHIP-SHAPE crew would do the painting.

CUFA's project serves Hamtramck, Highland Park, Taylor, Inkster, River Rouge and Ecorse, but is seeking applicants particularly from Highland Park, Taylor and Inkster.

If you are age 60 and older or handicapped or know someone else who would be interested in and qualify for SHIP-SHAPE services, call the CUFA Community Service Center in Inkster at 326-7045 or 326-7048.

Grow pine indoors

All trees don't grow outdoors. The Norfolk Island pine (Araucaria excelsa) is an evergreen tree you can grow in your living room.

Though it grows quite large in the wild, it rarely reaches a height of more than six feet when grown in a container in the home. It's slow growing, too, so it doesn't need repotting often.

Michigan State University horticulturists advise potting the Norfolk Island pine in a potting mix made up of equal parts houseplant soil and peat moss for a medium high in organic matter. Do not let the soil dry out completely, the experts advise. Dry soil combined with high temperatures will cause the lower foliage to turn brown.

Fertilize with a standard houseplant fertilizer every one to two months.

The Norfolk Island pine grows best in the light near a sunny window, but it can be maintained in the light needed to cast a faint shadow. Under low light, the branches tend to droop. If light strikes the plant from only one direction, turn it regularly so it grows symmetrically.

Moderate temperatures — 70 degrees during the day and 50-55 degrees at night — and high humidity are ideal. If the air around the plant is dry, the needles will turn brown.

The Norfolk Island pine isn't often bothered by insects. Red spider mites may become a pest, however.

Propagate this plant by cuttings taken from the upright growing tip. Side cutting will root and grow but will not grow upright. The plant can also be grown from seed.

Garden Doctor says...

The weather is warming, and interests are turning to the outdoors. And the advent of lawn and garden chores marks the return of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service's Garden Doctor.

This week the Garden Doctor answers:

Q: Is Zoysiagrass as ideal as the ads say?

A: The ads I've seen for Zoysiagrass are generally true except there's one major characteristic that's not mentioned. Zoysia thrives when temperatures are in the 80s and 90s. Likewise it becomes brown and dormant when temperature is lower than 55 degrees. Consequently Zoysiagrass is green approximately three months of the year here in Michigan. During the remaining nine months, it is light brown. This trait makes it unacceptable to most homeowners in our region.

Q: Is pressure-treated wood safe to use near plants?

A: You're wise to question the effect of wood preservatives on plants. Some, such as pentachlorophenol and creosote, are indeed toxic to vegetation. However, pressure-treated lumber is treated with copper naphthenate, which is safe for plants.

Q: How can I get ahead of lawn weeds this year?

A: You'll be able to control them most effectively if you know which weeds you are troubled by. If you had problems with crabgrass or other grassy weeds that germinate from seeds each spring, use a pre-emergent herbicide now. Weed killers that contain bensulfide, benefin, DCPA, or siduron kill the weed seedlings as they germinate.

If your lawn has broadleaved weeds such as dandelion or plantain, use 2,4-D or silvex during May since these herbicides must be absorbed through the leaves of the weeds when they're actively growing.

If quackgrass is the problem, a total vegetation killer such as amitrol can be used during May to spot treat only the patches of quackgrass.

Any unknown weeds that appear this summer can be brought to the Wayne County Cooperative Extension office for identification.

Q: There is a large crack in the bark of my maple tree. What can I do for it?

A: Vertical cracks on the trunks of maple trees are common. It is usually caused by winter injury and rarely hinders the tree's growth. No dressing is recommended for these vertical crevices. Further injury might be avoided by erecting a sunscreen on the south side of the trunk next fall.

County board approves fed block grant application

An application for $4.2 million in federal Community Development Block Grant funds on behalf of 30 out-county communities has been approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The board authorized submission of the application to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) while sitting as the Ways and Means Committee March 30.

The grant application will be filed by the County Office of Program Development and Coordination, which also administers the program, including the distribution of funds, although the money is spent on projects decided at local levels.

Under the block grant program, the county organizes willing communities with less than 50,000 population and asks HUD for funds in behalf of the entire group. Communities with large populations apply directly to HUD.

Public hearings in separate local communities and two county-wide public hearings have been conducted to determine project priorities.

Throughout the county include land throughout the county include acquisition for public programs, construction or improvement of water and sewer systems, housing development, recreation activity, a library, and demolition of sub-standard structures.

This is the fourth year of Wayne County participation in the block grant program, which has grown each year in both community involvement and money awarded. HUD's first grant was for only $637,000 for just 17 communities, contrasted with $3.6 million in 1977 for 24 communities. HUD approval of 1978 funds is expected in July.

County Board Chairman Jarrette Simmons said all of the county's 43 local communities participate in the program except Highland Park, Hamtramck, Inkster, Rockwood and Wayne.

"The five cities that are not members of our program can at present get more money by applying directly to HUD", she explained. "However, HUD reduces their amounts each year, so eventually we expect them to also join our project."

Spring flooding

You can't avoid it, but can prepare for it

This year the possibility of spring floods probably is serious. Anyone could be confronted with serious water damage problems from thaws and floods.

"It's very important to know what to do before a flood to help reduce your property losses," said John Wrend, vice-president of the Property Loss Research Bureau.

The Property Loss Research Bureau, an affiliate of the Alliance of American Insurers, is a nonprofit association maintained by member insurance companies to serve as an educational and consultative agency on property loss matters.

Wrend offered these suggestions for protection.

(1) Persons who live in areas that frequently flood should keep on hand materials like sandbags, plywood, plastic sheeting and lumber which can be used to build dikes around their property.

(2) Where flooding is a problem, install check valves in sewer traps to prevent flood water from backing up in sewer drains. Often, water may pour into a basement through sewer drains even though flood waters never reach the foundation of a home.

(3) When the imminent danger of flood is forecast, stock your car with a supply of nonperishable food, first aid kit, flashlight, blankets and dry clothing, particularly extra shoes and socks. Don't forget eyeglasses, special medications or dietary foods needed by your family. Keep your gas tank full and plan your safest route to higher ground. Avoid routes that cross streams or that have underpasses.

(4) Sanitize your bath tub and sink and fill with clean water. Electric power, water and other utilities may fail during a flood and a supply of water can be valuable even if the flood waters do not reach your home.

(5) Swing into action before flooding is imminent. Have a responsible family member devote close attention to a local radio station (use a battery powered radio) and to the changing scene outside. At the first sign of danger, get out fast. In the meantime, there is much you can do to diminish your property loss. Advance planning is wise long before a flood threat becomes an imminent danger.

Remember, in many flooded homes, the water level gets no higher than two or three feet from the floor. So the idea is to get things above that level.

Start early and move personal effects such as clothing, movable furniture, and appliances to high shelves or to the second story. If possible, remove equipment such as furnace motors to a high place such as the second floor or your attic.

Keep fuel tanks filled. Experience has shown that during flooding underground fuel tanks unless full or nearly full often buoy through the ground up to the surface. If near the foundation this may lead to collapse of the foundation wall. In addition, there can be oil leakage. As a precaution, if it is too late to fill with fuel, fill with water from a garden hose when a flood is imminent.

Don't try to pump the basement dry during the flood stage. It can result in collapse of foundation walls due to increased water pressure in surrounding soil. Flood engineers recommend that during flooding, basements be allowed to flood to equalize pressure on foundation walls.

Since your city may turn off the electrical power a worthwhile precautionary measure is to pull the fuses and close the main gas valve before evacuating. All homes have main power fuses.

"These points are suggested as guidelines," Wrend concluded. "When in doubt, always consult with an expert in the field that you are questioning."

CITY OF ROMULUS

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given of a Public Hearing to be held in the Romulus City Council Chambers Tuesday, April 25, 1978 at 7:00 p.m. to hear testimony for or against the following Zoning Ordinance Amendments; the hearing will be held at 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan:

1. Amend Section 2.01, DEFINITIONS

Add:
CZ. (1). TRUCK TERMINAL. Any premises used for the loading or unloading of trucks, bringing freight to be assembled and/or stored for routing, but where such storage of cargo is in an enclosed structure and is incidental and related to the primary function of motor freight companies, air freight companies, and freight forwarders. Warehouses are not included in this definition.

2. Amend Section 3.01 DISTRICTS.

Add:
M-T Industrial Transportation
3. Provide for Truck Terminal Parking.
Amend Section 6.02 TABLE OF OFF-STREET PARKING REQUIREMENTS

	Number of Spaces	Per Each Unit of Measure as follows:
(35) Truck Terminals	1	Employee, plus Truck berth or docking space on the site.
	3 (10 x 70 foot spaces)

4. Provide for an intermediate industrial district to permit truck terminals and other uses.

Amend the Zoning Ordinance to add a new SECTION 16A., M-T Industrial-Transportation District:

16A.01 STATEMENT OF PURPOSE. In the M-T District, the intent to permit certain uses and industries which are a light manufacturing character in industrially planned areas of the City. Further, the intent is to permit larger-scale trucking terminal operations involving interstate and intrastate motor carriers which activities are incompatible with the great majority of other land uses and are most suitably placed in strategic locations, close to complementary uses and other truck terminals, and locations which are efficiently coordinated with the City's planned street and thoroughfare system. It is further intended to provide for certain heavier industrial uses under certain conditions designed to avoid adverse impacts on other permitted uses.

16A.02 PERMITTED PRINCIPAL USES.

a. All permitted and special approval uses in the M-1 District, subject to the restrictions of that district.

b. Truck terminals, subject to the following standards:

1) A landscaped, planted open space of a minimum of twenty-five feet in width shall be provided along the full frontage of the site.

2) No structures, facilities or parking area shall be located within twenty-five feet of any residentially zoned property.

3) The portion of the site used for parking and/or storage of truck tractors and/or trailers shall be obscured by a berm on all side abutting residential, office, C-1 and C-2 districts, and on any front yard.

4) The site shall be designed so that all vehicles can move in a forward manner upon entering and leaving the site, to eliminate the necessity of backing up to enter or exit the site.

5) Truck terminals shall be located only on a road which has direct access to a freeway via roads which are capable of handling heavy truck traffic.

6) Minimum area for truck terminal sites shall be one (1) acre and minimum street frontage shall be 100 feet.

c. Uses associated with truck terminals: cartage and express facilities, parcel delivery stations.

d. Distribution, service and processing centers for commercial and service uses whose basic operations or business functions occur elsewhere. Such facilities in themselves shall not provide passerby or retail-type services and/or trade.

e. Accessory buildings and uses customarily incidental to the above Permitted Principal Uses.

16A.03 PERMITTED USES AFTER SPECIAL APPROVAL. The following uses may be permitted subject to the conditions hereinafter imposed and subject further to the review and approval of the Planning Commission:

a. All permitted and special approval uses permitted in the M-2 INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT, except junk yards, subject to the restrictions of that district and further subject to the following conditions:

1) A one hundred foot buffer of greenspace shall be provided between all industrial buildings and parking and storage areas and the property lines of abutting residentially zoned districts.

2) In considering the above special uses, the Planning Commission may require that the applicant provide detailed information and studies which indicate procedures, safeguards and methods by which the standards identified in Section 17.05 will not be exceeded.

16A.04 SITE PLAN REVIEW. In the M-T Industrial-Transportation District, a site plan shall be submitted for review and approval of the Planning Commission in accordance with Section 4.37 of this ordinance.

16.05 INDUSTRIAL PERFORMANCE STANDARDS. Any use established in the M-T Industrial-Transportation District shall not be permitted to carry on any activity or operation or use of land, building, equipment that produces irritants to the sensory perceptions greater than the measurements established in Section 16.05 INDUSTRIAL PERFORMANCE STANDARDS.

16.06. AREA, HEIGHT, BULK AND PLACEMENT REQUIREMENTS. (In accordance with the attached Schedule of Regulations, Section 19 of this ordinance).

5. Amend Section 19.00, Schedule of Regulations to require same regulation as the M-1 Light Industrial District.

Amend Section 19.01, AREA, HEIGHT AND PLACEMENT REGULATIONS

As follows:

Zoning District	M-T Industrial Transportation
Minimum Lot Size
Area in Sq. Ft.
Width in Ft.

'The Christian's bragging point'

THER EV. A.R. DICER
Pastor
Westland First Church of the Nazarene

Galatians 6:14: "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world."

What could Paul possibly see in the cross that was worth bragging about?

He saw the crucifixion as proof of Divine Justice. God was punishing sin! When Jesus bore the wrath that was due for our sins it was made forever evident to all that God's laws were not to be trifled with. He saw in the cross a dramatic display of God's love. He told the Romans: "God commanded His love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." He saw it as an open door of hope for all generations and a source of rest for all who would seek safety in its shadow. He envisioned its impact as a mighty stimulus; for the believer to renewed worship and for the sinner to repentance.

His "glorying" centers on an event which for many is not an occasion for celebration but a cause to bow their heads in shame. It is not the kind of experience that man generally likes to recall.

It is not pleasant to see a motley band of soldiers strip Jesus naked and put on Him a mocking scarlet robe. It is not enjoyable to see the crown of thorns jammed unto His sacred head and to envision their vile spittle as it slides down His compassionate face. It is not cheering to see them take a ragged, raspy reed and strike Him repeatedly about His head. It does not bring a smile to our face to see Him burdened down with the weight of His own cross, and as He stumbles and falls in the dusty road it does not bring rejoicing to our heart. The ringing of a metal hammer brings tears to our eyes as we see Him lying naked on the ground being nailed to the instrument of His torturous death. The thud of the heavy cross as it is lifted and plunged upright into place causes tremendous pain to course through our bodies as we see Jesus now "High and lifted up".

It is not pleasant to see Jesus hanging suspended between the heavens and the earth; blood flowing from a fresh spear wound in His side and trickling down the wooden cross to the dirt below from His nail pierced hands and feet. It is not humorous to hear the gathered crowd mock Him as he hangs there helplessly. It is not very enjoyable to see the sky blacken as the sins of the world are placed upon Him who is sinless or to listen as the Lamb of God lifts His dirty, wetted, blood caked face and cries: "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" It is almost a relief to see His head slump upon His silent chest as He succumbs to His sacrificial death.

Yet it is in this pitiful execution that Paul says he will glory. To see his point, we must look beyond the sufferings of the innocent manhood of Jesus and see on the cross the atoning sacrifice of Christ. It was more than just a man dying a shameful death. He was God hanging there, dying, the just for the unjust, the innocent for the guilty, that we might be saved. What a shameful thing our sin must be, if Christ must be made to bear such shame for us. Might we see He who was shepherd becoming the slaughtered Lamb of God that takes away the sin of the world.

He that hangs on the cross in anguish and pain is He that some of you never think of. He is one that you do not love. He is one to whom you never bow in prayer. He is one in whom you have no trust, and whom you never serve.

You, like those surrounding the cross, should smite your breast at the thought that such a victim should have been required to pay for your sins. Why not admit that you have willingly disobeyed the laws of God and need to beg forgiveness through the shed blood of Jesus. If you would only confess and believe on the crucified One, you will be in that moment forgiven, justified, and adopted into the wonderful family of God.

If you will accept His atoning sacrifice, then you could stop your mourning over the tragic circumstances surrounding the cross and begin to clap your hands for joy. If you would acknowledge Jesus as the Lamb slain for your sins you, like Paul, will find the cross to be the bragging point of your life.

EMU band to play

The Eastern Michigan University Symphonic Band will present its final concert of the academic year at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Pease Auditorium.

Directed by Dr. Robert S. Bianco, the band will present a varied program of original and contemporary wind band music. A highlight of the program is the first on-campus performance of "Scherzo for Band," written by Dr. Anthony Iannaccone, assistant professor of music at EMU. This work was premiered by the EMU Symphonic Band on April 7 at Western Michigan University when the band performed a concert program for the WMU Festival of Wind and Percussion Music.

The guest soloist for the program will be Holly Barrett, EMU oboe instructor. She will perform the Marcello Concerto for Oboe with chamber ensemble accompaniment transcribed by Bianco.

The band also will present the Overture for Band by Mendelssohn, "The Aegean Festival Overture" by Andreas Makris, "Symphonic Essay for Band" by Elliott del Borgo, "Fantasia in G Major" by J. S. Bach.

Famous organist to appear in show at Doug Brown's Johnny Kemm, internationally famous organist, will appear in a special program of organ music at 7:30 p.m. April 21 at Doug Brown Music, 9219 W. Wayne Road, Romulus.

One of America's best and most popular organists, Kemm has received many standing ovations, acclamations, awards and honors. Kemm recently won recognition as the nation's most popular male organist by the Organist Magazine in their first national poll.

Kemm tours extensively for Lowrey Organs at the rate of approximately one million miles every three years. In addition to playing more than 200 concerts per year, Johnny has also found time to record six popular organ albums which are currently available.

The Kemm performance promises to provide a stimulating musical experience for organ enthusiasts as well as an exciting treat for the uninitiated. His professional artistry takes full advantage of today's miraculous technology in the field of electronic organs.

Tickets for the musical treat are available free of charge from Doug Brown Music.

Meats vs. vegetables

Balance nutritional scale with home garden

Surveys of the typical American diet show that we tend to eat more meat than we need to fulfill our protein requirements and not enough fruits and vegetables. This means we consume insufficient quantities of complex carbohydrates and some vitamins and minerals.

One way to balance the nutritional scales a bit is to grow your own fruits and vegetables in a home garden.

A garden can be a valuable source of nutrients for the family, say Anita Dean and Bernie Zandstra, specialists in foods and nutrition and horticulture, respectively. A properly placed garden can supply a family with much or all of several of the necessary vitamins and minerals. A bonus is that garden crops tend to be very low in fats and calories and good sources of dietary fiber.

"When people think of vitamin C, they think primarily of oranges and grapefruit," Mrs. Dean observed. "But a number of fruits and vegetables that people can grow in Michigan are very good sources of this essential nutrient."

Cantaloupe, strawberries, broccoli, Brussels sprouts and peppers — red and green — are all good sources of vitamin C. Fair sources include honeydew melons, watermelons, asparagus, raw cabbage, collards, kale, kohlrabi, mustard greens, potatoes and sweet potatoes cooked in their skins, spinach, tomatoes and tomato juice and turnip greens.

The best sources of vitamin A are the dark green and deep yellow vegetables and a few fruits — apricots, broccoli, cantaloupe, carrots, chard, collards, kale, pumpkin, spinach, sweet potatoes, turnip greens and other dark green, leafy vegetables and winter squash.

Meat, poultry and eggs are the major sources of iron, but dark green, leafy vegetables, peas and beans and dried fruits also are valuable.

"Even calcium, which many people think comes exclusively from milk, is present in fair quantities in greens, broccoli, peas and beans," Mrs. Dean pointed out.

Most of the B vitamins are found in greatest abundance in whole grain and enriched cereals, meat, poultry, eggs, milk and nuts. Thiamine and niacin are available from peas and beans, however, and riboflavin from dark green, leafy vegetables. Small amounts of vitamin B-6 occur in many vegetables.

Good vegetable sources of dietary fiber include green beans, green onions, peppers, squash, soybeans, sweet potatoes, cauliflower and broccoli.

The nutrition-minded gardener should grow a variety of vegetables, Zandstra suggested. A good mix might include mustard greens, spinach, broccoli, carrots, green onions, tomatoes, beans, peppers and bush squash. A less common vegetable that is very nutritious is pak choy, sometimes called spoon cabbage. Potatoes, sweet potatoes, sweet corn and vining crops like squash and pumpkin would be good additions, if garden space is not limited.

How much is enough? Zandstra said a medium-sized garden of 450 square feet — a plot 30 feet long and 15 feet wide — could supply for the summer a good portion of the essential nutrients for a family of four. A larger garden and home canning or freezing of the excess produce could carry the family well into the winter.

He suggested planting 45 square feet each of mustard greens, spinach, pak choy, tomatoes and snap beans, and 20 square feet each of green onions, sweet peppers and sweet potatoes. Other crops with similar nutritional value could be substituted for those the family doesn't care for, of course.

Dining regularly on fresh vegetables from this garden would supply a family with about 25 percent of the iron they needed, 120 percent of the vitamin A, and nearly 250 percent of the vitamin C.

The garden also can be a source of exercise and family fun. Get the whole family involved, Zandstra suggested. "Youngsters may be more interested in eating spinach if they have a hand in planting, tending and harvesting it."

To make sure your garden is a success, start with a well prepared site and fresh seed, he advised. Seed for most standard home garden varieties can be purchased in garden shops, supermarkets and hardware stores. Less common varieties may be purchased through seed catalogs. Make sure all seeds are labeled for planting in 1978. Old seed may not germinate well.

Vegetables need water during dry spells and freedom from competition by weeds to give their best yields. Most will also benefit from a sidedressing of nitrogen fertilizer a few weeks after planting.

Grow your own has 'new wrinkle'

Growing your own vegetable transplants this year? Put a new wrinkle in the process by starting with pregerminated seeds.

Michigan State University horticulturist Hugh Price, who is researching the use of pregerminated seed for commercial vegetable production, says that home gardeners can use the process, too. All you need is a shallow container like a baking dish, some paper towels, clear plastic food wrap, water and seeds. Put the paper towels in the container and pour in enough water to soak them thoroughly. Dump out any excess water and smooth the towels across the bottom of the pan.

Scatter the seeds over the wet towel and cover the whole pan with the plastic wrap. This keeps in both heat and moisture. Then set the pan in a warm place that's not in direct sun. The seeds should germinate within a few days, depending on the crop. Price says. Tomatoes should take about three days, peppers five days and lettuce one day.

A seed is ready for planting as soon as a white root has emerged. Use sterile potting soil or a synthetic growth medium to avoid losing the seedlings to damping-off disease, Price advised. Use forceps or tweezers to lift the seeds and plant them in individual containers such as peat pots to minimize disturbance to the roots at transplanting time.

Conservation District to sell seedlings

Environmental purpose is aim

The Wayne County Soil Conservation District is making trees available to the public for environmental purposes. The trees are 2-year-old seedlings that range in size from 6 to 12 inches tall.

Available this year are red and white pines at a cost of $3.50 per 50. The spruce varieties are Norway and White at $3.75 per 50, and Colorado Blue at $4.50 per 50. There also are hardwood shrubs autumn olive and flowering (silky) dogwood available at $4 per 50.

To take advantage of this offer you must order a minimum of 50 of a single species. The purpose is to make plants available to land owners that will plant trees for environmental purposes. Normally, trees are thought of as a source of lumber for the many products that are made from trees. Such things as the houses we live in, the furniture that we admire, pencils that we write with, and this paper that we read are all made from mature trees.

From the time that the seed germinates and the tree is cut from the forest there are other environmental benefits that the tree provides. Trees are like a factory, that takes sunlight, water, soil and carbon dioxide as its raw material and turns it into timber. In this process carbon dioxide is converted into oxygen.

Many animals depend on trees for their basic needs. Trees provide a home for the birds and squirrels to build their nest. They provide cover for larger mammals to protect them from the predators. They also provide a source of food for other animals.

On a hot summer day one's thoughts are constantly turned to a spot in the shade to relieve us from the blistering heat. It is a fact, that underneath the tree is the coolest place one can find. So it can be said that plants, particularly trees, can act as a natural air conditioner.

Today we think of energy conservation very often. As the cost of energy increases, we need to think of natural ways to conserve energy. A windbreak around our homes will have the effect of making it cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

To get your trees make the selection from the species listed. (Remember the minimum order is 50 of a single species.) Total the price of your selection and make a check or money order payable to the Wayne County Soil Conservation District, Holliday Park Office Plaza, Room 103, 8623 Wayne Road, Westland 48185. Orders must be received in that office by Tuesday, April 18 so your request can be verified.

Trees will be distributed on April 22 at the 4-H Fairgrounds, 10871 Quirk Road, near Belleville, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. If you need assistance, call 261-6080.

Public utility can't assess late charge

By ATT. GEN. FRANK J. KELLEY

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

Over the past few months many citizens have asked me if a utility may impose an added charge on customers who pay their utility bills after a certain date. Most of these questions concern municipal water, sewage or electric bills, which demand a higher payment, if the utility bill is paid after an initial "due date".

The question asked most often is why municipal utilities can make these charges when the large public utilities do not and whether such charges are legal. This practice, which is referred to either as a prompt payment discount or a late penalty, is intended to encourage prompt payment of utility bills. By encouraging prompt payment, utilities contend that they are able to reduce their operating expenses.

For years both municipally-owned and private investor-owned utilities charged late payment penalties. The justification for the practice was to make late paying customers pay for the extra costs caused by their own late payments.

Recently, however, the Michigan Public Service Commission altered its billing practice rules to prohibit late payment charges by private investor-owned public utilities. Although the commission did not find the practice illegal, it felt that for policy reasons the "late payment" charge should be stopped. Therefore, the investor-owned utilities, like Detroit Edison Co., Michigan Bell Telephone Co., Consumers Power Co. and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., which are subject to Public Service Commission jurisdiction, may no longer charge late payment penalties.

Municipal utilities on the other hand are not subject to Public Service Commission jurisdiction. Rather, the local governing body, be it the city or town council, or village or township board, regulates municipal utility rates. Therefore, it is legal for municipal utilities to charge late payment penalties as long as the penalty amount is reasonably related to the added cost occasioned by late customer payments.

In other words, for the charge to be legal, the revenues collected from the late payment charge must be reasonably related to the added expense caused by overdue bills. Municipal utilities that impose late charges normally add an amount equal to 5 or 10 percent of the bill outstanding as the late payment charge. Although each utility may be different, experience has shown that late charges calculated in this manner are not out of line and therefore are legal.

For any utility this can be confirmed by a review of the utility's financial operations. Any interested citizen can and should ask his local unit of government to review financial operations of their utility and confirm that the late payment charge they impose is reasonable.

Brewster chair premieres

The much-publicized "Brewster Chair" will go on exhibit April 21 at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn — not as the antique that it was purported to be, but as an educational experience for visitors.

Acquired by the museum in 1970 as an authentic 17th century chair, it was later proved to be a modern-day copy when thoroughly analyzed by the museum's Conservation Laboratory. The decision was made to keep the chair as a "study" piece for the instruction of curators and student interns in the differences between authentic antiques and fraudulent copies.

The chair will not be exhibited with the hundreds of authentic early-American furniture pieces in the museum's collections but is being put on temporary exhibition in a separate area where visitors will be able to learn some of the techniques for detecting spurious copies.

Henry Ford Museum is open daily, with the exception of Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $3.50 for adults, $1.50 for children from 6 through 12. Children under six are admitted free.

For and about seniors

Worrying about middle age makes you old

By MAUREEN BEATTY

Since youth is considered so important in our culture, it is easy to fall into the habit of worrying about middle age, and equally easy to feel depressed about reaching what is often referred to as old age.

Harper's Bazaar recently brought our thinking into the 20th century by including Princess Grace and Lena Horne on their 10 most beautiful women list.

We need more of this type of positive thinking. Too many seniors, or not-so-far in the future seniors, fall into a self-defeating pattern with thoughts such as "I'm getting older, so I soon will stop leading a productive life," or, "What's the use of speaking up, no one wants an older person's opinion." Such concepts have all too often caused society to miss out on some much needed leadership from experienced and otherwise logical citizens.

Some of the self-help books that have been flooding the market recently, add to this destructive illusion. "At age 45," they tell us, "it is normal to feel depressed for you realize you have most likely reached your limits of achievement." Just possibly, a here-to-fore productive person reading this, could sit back and think: "Why am I kidding myself? It's too late for me now." Not too long ago I saw an active man slow down to a crawl, because he was reminded that his age he should be taking it easy.

A few senior citizens have only themselves to blame. They reach a certain age and automatically withdraw from the mainstream of life. They take no part in the issues vital to our changing population. They become sedentary.

Beauty is by far not the most important attribute we can be blessed with. But Harper's Bazaar has taken an important first step in recognizing that youth does not hold a monopoly on achievement.

In my work I come in contact with senior citizens daily. And each day I meet some beautiful, intelligent, productive men and women, all who are a joy to know.

It is time that all of us, seniors, middle-aged, and youth alike, recognize that age and experience, when combined with logic, can be an invaluable asset to society.

A word on beauty — is it not true that a tree is more elegant than a sapling?

Pancakes to benefit library

The Tyler Elementary School PTO hopes to buy dictionaries and library books with funds it will raise April 20 at a pancake supper.

The supper and open house will be held from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the school, located at 42200 Tyler Road, Belleville. All are invited to attend.

The delicious dinner will cost adults $1.75, children up to 13 $1, senior citizens $1, and pre-schoolers 50 cents, according to school principal Donald Priest.

Chairperson for the PTO supper is Kay Fahrner.

Already helping to make the dinner a success is Phil Brigandi, manager of the Flag's Restaurant in Belleville. Brigandi has donated $100 worth of sausage links for the meal. Not only will he be donating the sausage, but he also has agreed to donate his own time to cook the meat for hungry diners.

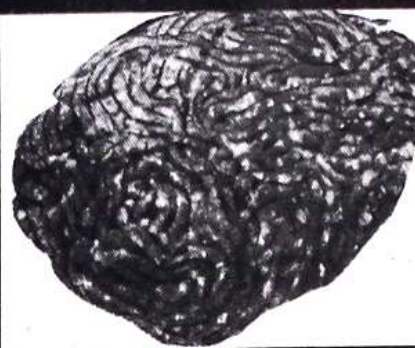

Persons attending the dinner also have a chance to win a 10-speed bicycle, and other prizes donated by businessmen. Raffle tickets, for 25 cents, or five for $1, will be sold for the prizes.

Parents, children and the public are invited to the open house and pancake supper.

Sunny climes beckon; residents heed call

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Koss of Riggs Road enjoyed 10 days traveling to Pensacola, Fla. then continued on to New Orleans, La. for several fun-filled days and nights of sightseeing. While there they met up with Ted and Barb Center, also of Riggs Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pieknik and family flew to Tampa, Fla. over the Easter holiday to enjoy the sunshine and good golfing.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis of Mc Bride Street returned home April 2 from a whirlwind trip to Las Vegas, Nev. and reported lots of sun and fun.

Beth Brinkerhoff accompanied the Phil Neupert family of Louisa Drive to the Bradenton, Fla. area for a week over the recent holiday break.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hammond of Karr Road returned April 2 from a 10-day visit to Hawaii where they enjoyed the tropical weather and many special attractions.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street returned April 5 after having been on vacation in New Port Richey, Fla. for the past two months. She visited cousins in Ft. Meyers and also her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Benjamin of Fowlerville, who were in the area. The threesome motored back to Michigan together.

Others enjoying the sunny South over Easter were the Darryl Raymonds of Beck Road; the Bert Smiths of Edison Lake Road; the Jack Paulsens of Ypsilanti; and the Edward Huges of Ann Arbor, whose golf package was set in the Orlando area and included the three courses at Disney World.

Val Sierota of Belleville joined Nancy Hudge and her family for the 10-day motor trip which included the Magic Kingdom and the many attractions around Lake Buena Vista.

Prior to their golf week, the Raymonds, who flew into Tampa, looked up Doug and Sherry Erb, formerly of Belleville, who are now operating a golf course near Sarasota. Doug was the golf pro at Lemontree until last year when he and his family made the move to Florida.

Also adding a side trip to their vacation, the Paulsens called on his mother in Venice and helped celebrate her birthday.

Enroute to the Sunshine State, the Smiths were overnight guests of former Bellevillites, Tom and Betty Hopka, in Knoxville, Tenn. Before winging their way from 88-degree temps, they visited with the Dutch Atchinsons at their winter home in Vero Beach.

Mrs. James Lemmens of Holland, Mich. spent the Easter week as the houseguest of Ms. Sue Fearon of Robson Road. Mrs. Lemmens' daughter, Suzy, underwent ear surgery at University Hospital in Ann Arbor March 27 and is doing very nicely at this writing.

Three Belleville area senior citizens were inadvertently omitted from last week's story on the group's trip to New Orleans, La., Nashville, Tenn. and Vicksburg, Miss. Sorry to have missed listing Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lunde and Jean Randall.

Aldine Potter of High Street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKelvey of Bemis Road for dinner March 30.

Adam Joseph has arrived to live on Sumpter Road with Nancy and Art Gase. The young man weighed 8 lbs. - 13 ozs. on his arrival March 29 at Beyer Memorial Hospital. His proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farrugia of New Boston and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gase of Tiffin, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brinkerhoff of Riggs Road took the train out of Windsor to Toronto and had a fun-packed three days of sightseeing and shopping. Their group also attended the Science Fair in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Touse of Roland Street enjoyed having his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Touse of Ypsilanti, for an evening of visiting after a lovely dinner. Glen and Vera have just returned from spending the winter in Le High, Fla. and visiting friends in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunter and family and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swaffer, all of Hull Road, recently spent several days with the latter couple's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Swaffer, in Hammond, Ind.

Peach-trimmed custard

For your recipe file

Sunburst custard pie stars

Fruit and pastry make a lovely duet but when a third delight is added — custard — dessert adds up to three-part harmony.

The basic concept of combining fruit, pastry and custard into favorite homemade desserts is incredibly easy thanks to Jell-O Americana egg custard mix. In this version of Sunburst Custard Pie, drained canned sliced peaches are arranged in overlapping slices around the top of the pie as a bright, sunny garnish.

Here is a good dessert for balancing a light meal and one which also provides important nutrients. Because the custard filling is made with milk, you have the foundation of a nutritious, as well as a delicious dessert. In addition to being a good source of protein, the filling also provides calcium and the B vitamin, riboflavin. All in all, a great dessert that's good for you.

Sunburst Custard Pie

1 package (4-1/2 oz.) egg custard mix
2 3/4 cups milk
1 egg yolk (optional)
1 baked 9- or 10-inch pie shell, cooled
Drained canned sliced peaches

Blend custard mix with milk in saucepan; add egg yolk. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring constantly. (Mixture will be thin.) Remove from heat. Cool 30 minutes, stirring often. Pour into pie shell. Chill until set, at least 4 hours. Arrange peach slices around edge of pie. Refrigerate any leftover pie.

Ray Slusarczyk appointed

Belleville man gains post as NAPS vice-president

A Belleville man, Raymond A. Slusarczyk, has been appointed Great Lakes Area Vice-President of the National Association of Postal Supervisors (NAPS). He fills the vacancy created by the retirement of David S. Davidson of Detroit on Dec. 31, 1977.

Slusarczyk is Tour Superintendent of Mail Processing at the Detroit Bulk Mail Center in Allen Park.

The 37-year-old appointee and his wife, Kay, have been married for 14 years. They and their two daughters, Cheryl Ann, 11, and Dawn Marie, eight, reside at 975 Sumpter Road.

He entered the Postal Service at Cleveland, Ohio in 1962 as a distribution clerk after receiving an honorable discharge from the U.S. Navy earlier that year. He worked as a personnel clerk, supply and inventory clerk, postal inspection clerk, station window and distribution clerk and distribution clerk on the work room floor.

In July of 1971, he was promoted to Supervisor of Mails at the Cleveland Post Office. Two years later, he was made Tour Superintendent at the Detroit Bulk Mail Center, the position he presently holds.

A member of NAPS since the day he was promoted to supervisor, Slusarczyk has been affiliated with Branch 46, Cleveland; Branch 23, Detroit, and Branch 545, Detroit Bulk Mail Center, which he helped organize and of which he was president from 1974 to 1978.

He has held office as 3rd vice-president and 2nd vice-president of the Michigan State Branch. His attendance at state and national conventions in addition to the 1977 legislative conference testify to his interest and participation in NAPS.

As Great Lakes Area Vice President, he will be serving the membership in the states of Michigan and Illinois.

The Slusarczyk family recently was in Washington, D. C. for a series of meetings and banquets which included Postmaster General Bill Boger and his wife, NAPS President Leebetter and a number of congressmen.

Theresa Ryan is pre-spring bride of Edward Taylor

Taylor City Hall was the setting March 17 for the wedding of Theresa Ryan and Edward J. Taylor. Mayor Donald Zub officiated the four o'clock ceremony before some 30 assembled relatives and friends.

The single ring rite united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan of 23754 Valley Dr., Romulus, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Taylor of 31501 Ecorse Rd., Romulus.

The bride held a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath to compliment her white satin wedding gown. A crown of pearls, flowers and leaves secured her silk illusion veil which drifted to chapel length.

Theresa, who was given in marriage by her father, chose Sandy Benrowsky of Taylor to serve as maid of honor. She wore a long beige gown and held a bouquet of blue carnations.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Don J. Taylor Jr. of Taylor, to carry out the duties of best man.

Both mothers of the young couple were presented with corsages of blue carnations. Mrs. Ryan donned a blue dress for the occasion while the bridegroom's mother chose to wear a blue and white gown.

Some 75 guests gathered at the home of the bridegroom's parents for the reception which followed. The newlyweds are now making their home at 7269 Cherokee in Taylor.

A graduate of Romulus High School, the bridegroom attended Henry Ford Community College and the University of Michigan at Dearborn. He also served with the U. S. Air Force and is currently working at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run.

Birthdays celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunter of Hull Road recently hosted a birthday dinner, honoring five family members having birthdays during the month.

Held March 24, the honorees were Richard, son Mike, daughter Joanna and son Tim, who shares the same birthday with his Grandma Hunter. Gifts for the birthday people were opened following the dinner.

Guests for the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swaffer, maternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hunter, paternal grandparents; and Ronald Hunter of Dearborn Heights.

MISS VAN DUSEN

MISS WHELOCK

MISS MOTT

Altar dates planned

VAN DUSEN - HOWARD

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville has been reserved for the Oct. 21 wedding of Linda Van Dusen and Robert Howard.

Their engagement and autumn altar plans are announced by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Van Dusen of 21300 Sherwood Rd., Belleville, parents of the bride-elect.

A senior at Lincoln High School, Miss Van Dusen is employed at Lowry's Market in Willis. A baton twirler for the past eight years, she has held state, regional and national titles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Howard of 10955 Willis Rd., Willis, are parents of the prospective bridegroom who is a graduate of Lincoln High School. He currently is attending classes at Washtenaw Community College while working as a machine repairman at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors at Willow Run.

WHELOCK - TAYLOR

The engagement of their daughter, Lauren Kay Wheelock, to Allen Joseph Taylor is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wheelock of 10444 Borgman Rd., Belleville.

Miss Wheelock, who has not as yet chosen a wedding date, is a 1977 graduate of Belleville High School currently employed at the Ypsilanti Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

The prospective bridegroom, who graduated from Belleville High School in 1974, is presently in his senior year at Michigan Technological University. He expects to graduate in May with degrees in electrical engineering technology and electromechanical engineering technology.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Taylor of 44957 Judd Rd., Belleville.

MOTT - ZEOLI

Kathern Mott and Mark Anthony Zeoli, both of Ypsilanti, are engaged and making plans for an April 28 wedding which will take place at the First Congregational Church of Ypsilanti.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mott of 48489 Ellen, Belleville, announce their daughter's engagement and nuptial plans.

A 1973 graduate of Belleville High School, the bride-elect resides at 1209 Russell St., Ypsilanti. She is employed as a senior clerk in the transcript department at the University of Michigan.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Zeoli of 1185 Hawthorne, Ypsilanti, is a 1972 alumnus of Ypsilanti High School currently attending Washtenaw Community College. A lab technician, he works for Climax Molybdenum of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Director of Spalding for Children is speaker at Junior Study Club meet

All 12 active members of the Belleville Junior Study Club were present for the March meeting held at the Robson Road home of Sheila Kuziak. Two guests, Ellie Grudzien and Pat Antonelli, were welcomed by the group.

Breaking with the tradition of serving refreshments at the close of the meeting, March hostess Sandy Lauth served cake, punch, tea, coffee and snacks throughout the evening.

Guest speaker was Cathy

Cavanaugh, director of Spalding for Children at Chelsea. She told of the services that Spalding offers for "hard to place" children and explained that Spalding routinely finds homes for children with cerebral palsy or spinal bifida.

The "A Child is Waiting", featured in the Detroit News and on Channel 4 television, was also instigated by Spalding and has grown to service youngsters previously considered unadoptable.

At the business session which followed, the card party committee reported on the success of the February event which insures the funds necessary to award the Genevieve Clark Scholarship as planned.

The scholarship committee, in turn, told of the one application it had received. Any single, female parent who resides in the Van Buren School district who is interested in furthering her education may apply for the $300 award. The deadline for applying is April 15, 1978.

The same committee announced that four Belleville High School students had submitted portfolios for the Annual Interlochen Art Scholarship which is awarded by the Women's Federation.

Shar Tator will be the club's official delegate at the State Convention of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs to be held April 25-27 at the Plymouth Hilton. Approximately 10 other club members plan to attend Junior Day.

The group voted to invite Frances Maund and Susan De Mara to the club's annual banquet in May when the Genevieve Clark Scholarship will be awarded. The two women are the twin sisters adopted by Miss Clark and her sister years ago.

A formal ceremony welcoming Ellie Grudzien as the newest member of the Junior Study Club preceded election of officers for 1978-79. Suzie Druker was named president; Reia Clark, vice-president; Cathy Horste, treasurer, and Diane Wilson, secretary. Installation will be held at the April 19 meeting.

Riggs does social work in Gettysburg

Richard Riggs, the son of Albert and Anne Riggs of Haggerty Road, Belleville, currently resides in the Gettysburg, Pa. area where he works as a social worker for the Community Mental Health Center.

Riggs holds the president's title of the Adams County Community Action Program and presides over the Youth Volunteer Program as well. Maintaining his musical interest gleaned from years of study beginning with Belleville's musical program, Riggs plays violin in the Gettysburg College Orchestra.

A Michigan State University graduate in 1972, Riggs was a Vista volunteer one year before filling his present position.

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

What can I say? What can I do?

If you've avoided visiting the home of a terminally ill friend or relative because you don't know what to do or say when you get there, you're not alone. But here are some things you can consider:

DO IT NOW
Visiting them now shows them you're still a friend. Visiting at the funeral shows the widow (er) and family the same thing, but also that you waited too long. Do it now, and show you care.
What to say and do:
Say that you've been praying for him and mean it. Say that you've brought a book that might help. Say you've arranged to take that friend to the hospital (or doctor's office) for the regular visit next Thursday, so the spouse can tend other chores. Take his wife's grocery list along with yours when you go marketing next week. Offer to fix a lunch, wash a car, drive the kids or any other special little chore as needed. But do it now.

Don't stop there. After the funeral, all of the above are still good examples to follow - and may aid in comforting the family.

Try a pewter plate

A simple pewter dish and a 3-inch diameter round candle create a turn-of-the-century decorator accent. When used in a grouping of antiques or early American furnishings, the candle ensemble adds two important elements—fragrance and light—to the arrangement.

Round-the-house accessories can accent candles

With a little imagination, candle ensembles can be created from materials available in almost every home or apartment.

Pie plates, cutting boards, clay flowerpots, trays and brass or pewter accessories are only a few of the items that can serve as decorative candle holders.

"Always use a candle holder to protect your countertops and furnishings," advises George Pappas, president of the National Candle Association.

Here are some suggestions from the association on often overlooked items which make excellent candle holders:

Tapered candles inserted into the center of hollowed-out apples add a colorful and whimsical touch to a buffet table or a children's party table.

Arrange cheese with three to five round candles of various heights and diameters on a wooden cutting board for a simple but effective buffet centerpiece.

Bring the feeling of the outdoors inside by placing candles in clay flowerpots and surrounding with potted plants. This arrangement also will brighten a patio dinner.

Small bowls, cups, goblets and a host of other china or pottery pieces make excellent holders for tapered or spiral dinner candles. Simply fill the containers with such colorful food items as popcorn, red kidney beans or macaroni and insert the candle.

Stir up a festive air by inverting a bundt cake pan on a pie plate and place a 3- by 9-inch-round candle in the center.

Everyday items such as a quiche pan or a colorfully designed metal tray can be unusual bases for ensembles of 2- and 3-inch-diameter round candles.

"The list of items which can be used as attractive candle holders is limited only by our imagination," Pappas said. "Take a look around your home, and the next time you are ready to create a candle accent, you'll find your hardest job is not finding a suitable holder but choosing between the dozens of holders available."

Lawn and garden guide for April

April showers bring Michigan gardeners out of hibernation at last! Michigan State University Extension specialists suggest the following activities are timely this month:

- Work the garden soil as soon as it's dry enough. (If you squeeze a handful and it forms a muddy clump, it's too wet.) Add fertilizer and lime as needed, following the recommendations from a soil test.
- Early in the month, plant parsley seeds, onion seeds and sets, parsnips, salsify, kohlrabi, turnips, chard, beets, cauliflower, spinach, carrots, radishes, leaf lettuce, early potatoes, asparagus, rhubarb, grapes, strawberries and raspberries.
- Late in April, plant seeds of tomatoes, melons, peppers, eggplant and other tender garden crops indoors for transplanting outside after the danger of frost is past.
- Get motorized lawn and garden equipment ready for the new growing season.
- Rake or dethatch your lawn if it has one-half inch or more of thatch. An early mowing to one inch will remove old, dry grass blades to make way for new growth.
- Roll the lawn after the frost is gone but before it dries out.
- Early in April, plant the seeds of fast growing annuals like calendula, marigold and cosmos indoors for transplanting outdoors in May.

- Prepare outdoor beds for annuals. Spade or till in peat moss, sand and fertilizer as needed.
- Save Easter lilies for planting outdoors after the danger of frost is past.

— In late April, plant seeds of sweet alyssum, larkspur, cornflowers and annual chrysanthemums outdoors.

- Fertilize perennials.
- Prune winter-damaged trees and shrubs. Deciduous trees and shrubs that bloom after June 30 may also be pruned now. Do not prune spring flowering shrubs like forsythia and lilac. That would remove the flower buds on branches and prevent blooming on portions removed.

— Inspect trees and shrubs for scale and bagworms. Hand pick and destroy bagworms. Each little bag contains hundreds of eggs that will hatch around June 1. Spray scale-infested trees and shrubs with a dormant oil spray when temperatures are above 45 degrees F.

- Plant lily bulbs, dormant roses, trees, shrubs and fruit trees.

— Remove half the mulch from roses, bulbs, strawberries and perennials. Take the rest off in late April or early May.

- Fertilize blackberries, raspberries, currants and gooseberries. Do not fertilize strawberries now — wait until after they have flowered and fruited.

- Apply weed control sprays in raspberries.

— If you had a serious scale, mite or aphid problem on any plants last year, consider using a dormant oil spray. Pick a windless day after the last chance of heavy frost. Check the label for plants that can be sprayed with oil.

- Expect ladybugs to come out of hibernation and congregate at the bases of house walls and other places. These are good guys, so don't spray them. If they get into the house, sweep them up and dump them outside again.

— Elm leaf beetles, cluster flies and box elder bugs will become active. They may invade living areas from wall spaces. If necessary, use spot sprays of an insecticide containing pyrethrin.

— Swarming winged ants will become more common as warm weather approaches. Use a malathion spray along foundations and baseboards to head off those nesting near or in basement walls.

Chamber sets dinner-dance — you're invited

The Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual dinner-dance on April 15 at the Lemontree Clubhouse. Get your taxes in five hours early in order to enjoy the cocktail hour from 7 to 8 p.m. which will feature a cash bar.

Carved standing rib roast will highlight the 8 p.m. dinner hour after which induction of officers and new board members will take place. State Rep. Gary Owen will be in the spotlight to discuss the future of the Belleville area.

After that it will be back to the cash bar and dancing for the remainder of the evening to the music of The Dominoes. Cost per person is $11 and reservations must be made by April 12 by calling the Chamber office at 697-7151.

All members of the chamber and the community are cordially invited to attend and possibly walk off with one of the many door prizes which will be awarded that evening.

The Wise Dieter

By FLORINE MARK

Dealing with pressure to 'eat, 'eat, eat'

The scene is familiar to every dieter.

You weigh yourself after a week of carefully sticking to your diet. As you wait for the scale to tell its story, you know that this moment is the payoff for the self-control and positive action you've exhibited.

There it is! The numbers show you have made significant progress.

You feel great about your accomplishment and you want to share the news, so, naturally, you announce your success to a relative or friend. And here comes the kicker.

He or she is ecstatic for you and offers to help you celebrate by treating you to a hot fudge sundae.

How do you handle this typical example of the way loved ones and friends show their support of you in negative ways? After all, you don't want to hurt his or her feelings, you know the gesture is well-meaning and you are tempted. I've found that following two principles can make it much easier to deal with "pressure feeders" and other "discouragers."

The first is to refuse the offer in such a way that you recognize the offerer's good intentions.

"Thank you for thinking about me, but I am determined to stay on my diet until I reach my goal weight, so please show you care and support in other ways," is a good response.

The major elements are present in that answer and it can be stated in many ways in your own words. It acknowledges the good intentions, states your determination and opens the door for more constructive support.

Once you have established that valuable understanding with the first friend or loved one who happens to put pressure on you, you are ready for principle number two.

Simply stated, that principle is "Be consistent!"

In other words, don't say "no" sometimes and "yes" on other occasions. For one thing, people watch your reactions. If you are inconsistent, they will perceive your behavior as subject to their pressures and therefore continue to push food your way, still with the best motives.

At the same time, inconsistency costs you, in terms of your own ability to remain true to yourself and in terms of your diet's ultimate success.

Knowing how to deal with pressure feeding is essential to a working diet, but it's just as important to be able to recognize who the pressure feeders are in your life.

In general terms, they most likely are the people who care about you and have come to relate the showing of affection with the offering of food. As stated, these folks are very often loved ones and close friends.

By the same token, offering candy, pastries, cookies and the like has become a "socially correct" way of dealing with acquaintances or casual visitors.

Do some reflecting on the past few weeks. Recall the people who have urged you to eat improperly and the situations that you were in when the problem arose.

Once you have clearly identified the people and situations and once you have mastered the principles for dealing with them, you'll find it much easier to stick with your diet.

Typists, stenos needed in D.C.

Are you interested in shaping a peaceful world, one of the most important enterprises of mankind? If you are, then the U.S. Department of State may be interested in you.

The department has a crucial role in the mission of peace, and because of the vital nature of the job, it requires special kinds of persons to conduct this work.

Currently, the department needs staff personnel to work in Washington, D.C., and is looking for stenographers and typists, both men and women.

Employees of the department are called upon to perform a variety of office skills, including greeting foreign ambassadors and other dignitaries. Occasionally, they are called on to assist at international conferences in foreign capitals and at the U.S. Mission to the United Nations in New York City.

A spokesman for the department, said salaries for the positions range from $7,035 to $9,959 per year, depending on education, experience and Civil Service Commission test scores.

Applicants must be an American citizen and at least 18 years old with a high school diploma or the equivalent. A background investigation is required.

If accepted for employment, the department of State will pay transportation costs from your home to Washington, D.C.

Residents interested in the positions can write the Recruitment Branch, Employment Division, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20520.

Alexander the Great's in Westland

By JOE BENYO

Traveling Gourmet

accent, and is very enthused about his restaurant and the quality of food they have to offer the diner. The decor of Alexander the Great is very uniquely done, with two levels for dining — The first level with booths, and the second level with tables and chairs. The booths and chairs are cushioned in bright colors of orange leather and very comfortable and relaxing. The ceiling is a patterned checkerboard-style acoustical tile, with the noise level held to a minimum, even with the entertainment performing.

The interior walls are decorated brick in colors of red and rust, and the draperies are richly valanced in bright colorful flowers in shades of reds, yellows and golds. The carpeting is very easy on the feet, with a cushiony feel, designed in a terrazzo style pattern of blues, greens and golds.

Imported chandelier lighting is marvelous in a cut glass effect and very elegantly done, with the wall lighting of large cut globe, against a smoked glass. All the lighting is a subdued yellow glow.

The stage area for the performers is done richly in red velvet, and the sound system is excellent in both sound, as well as moderate tone, with out drowning out one's conversation.

The head chef, Tony Valentini, has been with the restaurant since its opening and is a graduate chef with more than 10 years experience. He sees to it that the purchase of meats is of the "choice" quality, as well as other items on the menu.

After our conversation with Walter, we were taken back to the kitchen and formally introduced to the general manager, Tom Tomovski, who as we learned was from the old country and who proceeded to explain the various cooking ovens and their function. The barbeque process is done on an old fashioned method of a rotisserie with an open fire heating the coals. And is cooked about 80 percent for the flavor. Then, as needed, they are placed in a magic ray broiler, with a grease pan, to carry off unwanted grease, yet retain the full taste of the food.

When the restaurant was first taken over by Walter, he immediately ordered new equipment, spending thousands of dollars to properly achieve the quality, by using the proper equipment, to suit the menu planned for Alexander the Great customers.

The hours are 11 a.m. - 2 a.m. every day except Sunday, when the hours are 12 noon to 2 a.m. with the restaurant able to comfortably seat some 140 people. Entertainment is seven nights a week, with Jayne Carter Wednesday through Saturday and Bill Kahler Sunday through Tuesday. Both performers are very popular and talented and worthwhile to listen to while dining.

Our waitress, Marlene Provencal, has been serving some five years and was most efficient, and above all, so very pleasant, that we knew the dinner would be even better because of her attitude and charming personality.

All types of cocktails are available, as well as domestic and imported beers, and the price is very moderate. The drinks are very good, not overdone or strong.

We were joined by Walter, who explained the various dishes we sampled and answered any questions in regards to the preparation of the food.

A bread basket was brought to the table, filled with bread sticks, fresh bread and crackers of every description. Everything was fresh and delicious...

The menu has appetizers and soups, with french onion soup at 45 cents to shrimp cocktail at $1.75, salads frond from a tossed salad at 70 cents, a maurice at $2.15, macedonian at $2.25 and a special Alexander's Great salad at $1.95.

The great barbeque has a special at $3.75, combination of chicken, shrimp and ribs at $5.45 and a whole slab of ribs at $9.75, all served with salad or cole slaw, home fries, garlic bread and the special sauce. Side orders also are available and deep fried mushroom at $1.95.

Seafoods include deep sea scallops at $3.10, cod, shrimp and flounder to a seafood platter at $4.95...steaks and chops range from baby steer liver at $3, pork chops at $4, to a filet mignon at $6.75...Macedonian-style crepes range from $1.85 to $2.25, spaghetti at $2.35, strudel at $2, and various other desserts. Beverages include coffee, tea, milk at 40 cents and soft drinks at 45 cents. On Sundays, a family-style barbeque chicken dinner, all you can eat, 12 noon to 8 p.m. Adults $3.75 and children under 12 $1.95...

SOUP...French onion...excellent broth with onion pieces and croutons, seasoned just right...cream of mushroom...thick, hot, creamy with bit pieces of mushrooms...delicious...

SALAD...tossed salad, crisp tender green lettuce, ripe red, juicy tomatoes, shredded carrots...good... Alexander the Great...sliced tomato, sprinkling of chopped onions, covered with snowy-white flaked feta cheese with a special dressing...outstanding...

FRENCH FRIED MUSHROOMS...specially prepared, batter by Dobrinka, was excellent, inside tender and the sauce tangy and tasty.

HAND BREADED SHRIMP...battered and deep fried to perfection...sauce again excellently prepared...

BARBEQUE RIBS...absolutely outstanding...tender, flavorful and a sauce that keeps you eating... (moist heated towels for rib eaters also are provided)...

BARBEQUE CHICKEN...light, tender, moist...truly well prepared, and the sauce enhances the meat...

FILET MIGNON...a medium rare in cooking...but a rare find is being super tender, able to cut with a fork, onion rings...baked potato, sour cream...outstanding...

APPLE STRUDEL...Light flakey crust...spices...hot apples...powdered sugar on top...melts in your mouth...

MACEDONIAN-STYLE CREPES...Blackberry, strawberry, raspberry, fresh fruits in that delicate pastry, rolled and filled, topped off with powdered sugar...Fantastic...only word to describe this dessert...

COFFEE...brewed to a rich taste, with no bitterness at all...very good.

Kaltenbach tosses 1-hitter in nightcap

Glenn, Wayne '9s' split in opener

While more high school teams in the area have to suppress their feelings and delay their debuts because of an uncooperative weatherman, Wayne Memorial and John Glenn managed to squeeze in their opening baseball games of the 1978 season.

Wayne cashed in on 10 Glenn errors in the first of two games and won a mistake-filled opener 10-7 at the expense of Rocket starter Bill Robertson, while Glenn came back in the nightcap behind newcomer Pat Kaltenbach to even the score with a 2-1 victory over their arch rivals.

"Both teams fell short of expectations in the first game," said veteran Glenn mentor Norm Hoenes. "There were a total of 16 errors - between both teams. However, the kids settled down in the second game and played a good ball game."

Glenn got to Wayne's ace Jim Canfield for a run in the first inning as Tim Ruark singled, advanced to second on an error, then scored when Glenn slugger, Jim Irwin singled.

But Wayne gave their ace five runs in the top of the second at the expense of starter Bill Robertson who lasted 4 2-3 innings before Hornes took a look at reliever Ralph McKenzie. Robertson, charged with the loss, gave up six runs and six hits, fanned four and walked two in his first appearance in a varsity uniform.

The Westlanders however came back and tied the score in the bottom of the second as Canfield tried a wide assortment of pitches to find the form which helped him become one of the top hurlers in the Great Lakes 8 Conference a year ago.

Craig Walker walked and with men on second and third, John Merwyn drilled a two-run single. Merwyn eventually scored on a pair of errors.

Wayne went ahead 6-5 in the third but Glenn refused to yield and again tied it up on Walker's fourth inning single and Merwyn's single to left center.

Coach Jim Chronowski's Zebras stashed the game away in the fifth with a four-run outburst.

Canfield, who gave up five runs - all unearned - received credit for the victory. Chronowski shuffled in a pair of pitchers in the stretch to protect the four-run lead.

Kaltenbach settled down after giving up a run to Wayne in the first inning and pitched near-perfect ball for seven innings. His bid for a no-hitter was spoiled by Ray Layton who belted a single in the fourth.

Glenn tied the game at 1-1 in the third as Robinson worked starting pitcher Mark Korte for a walk, then Mark Cesarz singled him to third and an infield single by Walker loaded the bases.

Irwin drove in the equalizer with a sacrifice fly.

Despite key deficiencies, Wayne will be a contender

Though they won't have the awesome artillery or the pitching they had in the past, Wayne Memorial isn't expected to be shy of talent on the diamond this season. Especially with Jimmy Canfield returning to Coach Jim Chronowski's line-up.

Canfield, a 6-2, 185-pound senior who doesn't throw darts but has good velocity and a variety of pitches, is one of the most sought-after prep pitchers in the state this year. "He has already been offered free ride scholarships to Eastern and the University of Michigan," said Chronowski.

"Pro scouts also have rated him as one of the finest prospects around."

With Canfield, Wayne should have a superior pitching staff, but Chronowski insists that this year's team "would be completely different in power structure than he had in the past three years."

"We won't have the power that the Billy Crewes, Pat Bledsoes, Don Johnsons and the Pat Sheridans provided us in the past," pointed out the Wayne skipper. "and we're not a gifted team when it comes to speed. We do have some fine ball players as Canfield, McGill (Doug) and Smart (Larry) who have experience, but we're going to have to upgrade almost every department in order to offset our heavy losses to graduation."

Wayne captured its second conference title in three years in 1977 with a record-setting 12-2 showing. The Zebras amassed a 25-7 over-all mark, establishing another record for the most victories in one season.

Canfield was instrumental in last year's championship drive as he belted out a .330 season and provided depth on the mound. McGill, the league's MVP, set all sorts of records in a gaudy .429 batting year and the Wayne infielder could be even more dazzling this season. Smart was the Zebras' leadoff hitter in 1977 and is back to play the role again and his speed could be the key to Chronowski's strategy this year.

Chronowski has bona-fide starters in swingman Roger Peskey who has nailed down the starting assignment at shortstop, then there're catcher Bob Nutt, firstbasemen Mark Solarz and Canfield (when he's not pitching). Wes Scott, a junior, or Ray Layton at second and McGill at third. The outfielder will be strengthened by all-around athletes Mark Korte, Mark Zerna and Smart - all of whom have lettered in other sports.

Larry Vojtkofsky, who has a difficult name to spell, but could be a hitting phenom if the chips fall in the right places, will be used as a back-up pitcher and singman at third and short.

Though graduation has hurt the Zebras immensely, don't expect Wayne to crumble. Though they may be weaker in power, they could have more consistency at the plate thanks to a "singles and doubles ball club."

It is conceivable that Monroe, who has the benefit of some transfer players and a nucleus of veterans this year, to snatch the title away from the Zebras, but Wayne's deficiencies aren't of that magnitude to shuffle them out of the title deck.

Anyone who does, doesn't know Chronowski.

They're No. 1

Atop of the inaugural Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League throughout most of the season, the Extra Point Bar & A.C. managed to hold off challengers to win the regular season title with an impressive 18-3 won-lost record. The line-up for the championship team included: (front left, seated) Conrad Madaleno, Ray Erickson,

It's 52nd vs. Huron in hockey playoffs

A couple of teams who weren't supposed to be there are in the finals of the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey playoff championship game.

Extra Point Bar, which won the regular season title, was stunned in the first round, tossing the post-season tournament into an "anyone's tournament."

And the surviving test are 52nd Show Bar and Huron Valley Total who were scheduled to meet those Sunday evening to settle their title differences.

Fifty-Second advanced into the championship gaame by whipping Jack's Sporting Center 5-0, however, the score is deceptive. The game was closer than it would indicate despite the fact that Jack's couldn't get through the solid goaltending provided in the form of Tim Vandenberg.

After a scoreless first period, John Dombrowski tallied for the winners to move the finalist out in front 1-0. That score stood up until midway into the third period when Wayne Auten and Jerry Grubbe fired in goals 30 seconds apart, giving the winners a commanding lead over the tiring Jack's conglomeration. Then, Phil Cern and Don Middaugh added the final touches with goals to round out the scoring.

Meanwhile, Huron Valley reached the finals with a come-from-behind 4-3 thriller over Broch Builders.

Chuck Heebst opened the scoring to give Broch's an early lead but Terry Carley tied the game for Huron Valley.

Masters eyes 'the wall' at Boston

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

He used such words as "glycogen", and "mileage dehydration", "physiological fatigue" and the infamous "wall" - words so foreign to a sportswriter.

"But the wall is the thing that you really have to be careful and aware of. That stops more runners than anything else except physical unpreparedness."

If you're thinking that the person who's telling the story is someone who just escaped from behind the "Berlin Wall", you're mistaken.

The speaker is 28-year-old Timothy Masters, former ball player for Cherry Hill High and Henry Ford Community College, who is about to venture on a trip to Boston to compete and hopefully complete his fifth Boston Marathon.

The 82nd running of the grand-daddy of all American marathons will be staged Monday at noon. It is staged in commemoration of Patriots' Day and sponsored by the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

And, before we get into Masters' masochistic dialogue about the running of the marathon, let readers note that, according to history Pheidippides' legendary run to Athens from Marathon in or around the year 490 B.C. started this thing. Pheidippides "reportedly" died - and I don't know who was doing the reporting that day - after the 26 mile sprint. Anyway, he collapsed after the run and died, but not before telling his boss that the Greeks won a major battle. It isn't important at this point what happened, but it is essential to know that Pheidippides started something that has kept him and marathon in the books for centuries.

Modern man, of course runs 26 miles and 385 yards and those extra yards are a story in themselves which we will by-pass today.

Now back to Masters. Why does he (or anyone for that matter) want to run a marathon which causes pain and grief at the finish line?

"I really can't answer that," replied the golden-haired, mustachioed, trim athlete. "I think it's because of the challenge. And I say, 'think' because there hasn't been a marathon that I have run which I haven't said to myself, 'What the hell am I doing here. I'll never run it again. And back I go.'"

The fifth trip to Boston will be eased somewhat, however, because of the financial backing of Dr. John Dimanian, who has a medical clinic in Dearborn. Dr. Dimanian has offered to pay for Masters' plane ticket fare if the good-looking runner will wear a jersey bearing the doc's sponsorship.

"It isn't the financial thing, of course," Masters pointed out. "I would go even without the sponsorship because there is something about the marathon that is intriguing, challenging."

The Boston Marathon is not an open race, as is the "most-populated Hawaiian Open" which lured some 7,000 runners last year. In order to run in the Boston race, an athlete must qualify at an AAU-sanctioned marathon. Masters' qualifying ticket received its stamp of approval at the Motor City Marathon held last October on Belle Isle. He covered the distance in an impressive 2:38.30 and finished 24 in a field of more than 400 runners.

Obviously, one doesn't just go out and run 26 miles, so how does Masters prepare for the distance. He says he cranks out 110 miles a week, getting up at 5 a.m. every day - during blizzard and rains - to put in his miles.

"Even during that big snow storm last January, I was out there and people thought I was nuts," said Masters.

Moreover, running down sidewalks and streets have their perils as well. Masters relates how a car full of hoods tried to stop him one day and got out and beat him up...he just kept on running.

It is that kind of determination one needs to lick and conquer the menacing Boston course which meanders up-and-down hills and through hilly terrain.

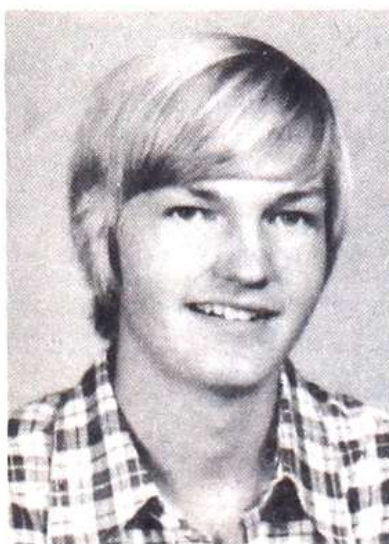

Masters graduated from Cherry Hill in 1968 and ironically didn't compete in either cross country or track but played for Coach Jim Dolloway's baseball teams. Upon graduation he entered Henry Ford Community College where he continued to play ball for Art Sheridan's Hawks, but in his sophomore season suffered an ankle injury. That prevented and ended his baseball career.

"When I got back the strength in my ankle I decided to take up running and began jogging," Masters related, "and I liked it so much that I decided to really get serious about it. Four years ago I entered my first Boston Marathon and swore I would never go back. I did."

Tim has continuously improved and this year has set his goals on finishing in the top 10 percent of the field that will gather over the weekend in Boston. There will be in the vicinity of 4,100 runners, including 200 women.

Sandwiched between his workouts and working for the Reed & Carnick Pharmaceuticals as a company rep, Tim has married his

TODD BEYER

Wayne netter starts strong

Beyer 2nd at Oak Park

Continuing to display the form that earned him state-wide consideration as one of the top teen-age tennis players around, Wayne Memorial's Todd Beyer finished second at the inaugural Michigan Junior Spring Tennis Tournament held at the Oak Park Racquet Club.

En route to the finals, the 17-year-old Wayne senior destroyed the No. 1 and 3 seeds in the tournament. In the finals, Beyer met and lost by a tie-breaker to Novi's Greg Goff.

The series went 5-7, 7-5 and 6-7 before Goff managed to eke out the three-hour marathon thanks to a 5-2 tie-breaker.

"I had tired," Beyer admitted, commenting on the championship game. "In the morning I played a 2-hour semi-final match with the No. 1 seed, (John Willard of Grosse Pointe Woods) while Goff had had played his semis the night before."

Beyer turned back Willard in two identical sets of 7-5. He had earlier beat Brian August 6-2 and 6-1, and ran up against teammate, Jeff Holderness, also of Wayne in the next round and eliminated his closest friend by scores of 6-2 and 6-1.

In the quarter-finals, Todd met

Rochester's Hal Jolley, seeded No. 3, and got by 6-2 and 6-3.

Beyer is ranked 15th in the state in the 18 and under division and is a strong candidate to win the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship. He launched the nonleague phase of the season Friday by helping Coach Jack Armstrong's Zebras win a decisive 7-0 victory over Taylor Kennedy.

Wayne was second to Monroe in the league and if they can find some replacements for their doubles teams the Zebras could go all the way this year.

Pitching to be Tiger forte

Graduation has dealt Belleville sophomore Coach Dan Fisher a severe blow.

Not fatal, however. With four holdovers from a team that had its problems a year ago, Fisher needs replacements to fill the void. Fortunately, however, the Tiger skipper has his pick of a flock of youngsters from the junior varsity squad that wound up with an impressive 12-6 record a year ago.

"We graduated so many people, and the weather has been so bad that I really can't say what we have in the way of talent this year."

"However, our junior varsity had a good year last season and we have a couple of potentially strong senior hurlers and we're going to rely on them to get us off to a good start until our younger candidates are groomed and matured," Fisher added.

Fisher is enthused over righthander Terry Cole, a senior who posted a 7-1 personal record on the mound a year ago and also 6-4, 200-pound junior Tom Montgomery generates a lot of optimism.

These two are genuine pitching talent and, though prep coaches like to point out that pitching is half of the battle, the two quarters are defense and hitting, (not necessarily in that order.)

If Fisher can upgrade his pitching rotation - a sore spot in the last campaign and if the defensive lapses are far between, then the Tigers may salvage a season.

Building anew always poses problems, but Fisher has a couple of other returnees who may ease that pain. Rob Laney, notable for his heroics on a basketball court, will be back to handle the shortstop chores. He batted a respectable .280 a year ago, and first baseman Charlie Childers should be improved over last year at the plate and in the field while Dan Skyles, an outfielder conceivably could develop into one of the better hitters. Add to the list Stan Price (even the name sounds like a solid baseball player) who will try to muscle his way into the pitching rotation and Brent Verrot, a tough athlete who has earned recognition as an All-Area wrestler as well as a grinder, and Fisher does have a nucleus to take on most of the league and area teams.

However, the Belleville coach doesn't see his program upgraded to the point where he can give Allen Park veteran squad any problems. Allen Park's crew, which reached the Class A quarter-finals a year ago, is back intact and hopes to go all the way in 1978.

"Allen Park has the class of the league this year," said Fisher, "no one is doubting that."

Could Belleville possibly sneak in? "There is always a possibility," Fisher offered, "but everything and I mean everything would have to fall right for us. If people began to take us for granted, we could surprise a lot of them. But Allen Park and defending champ, Livonia Bentley, along with Dearborn and Edsel have a lot to contend with."

There are other notables that Belleville fans will hear (and read) a lot about during the next two months. They include juniors Bob Newman, Jim Mecurio and Doug Perry who will be played in the outfield. Wayne Morris, Larry Cicotte, Rick Elgas, Mark Daroci, Lloyd Dubisky, Mark Sharp and Kevin Fry are in the wings, waiting for action.

"We definitely are young and have little varsity experience," added Fisher. "If we have a respectable season - that's our goal."

Wayne starts Great Lakes track season with victory

Wayne Memorial, the second best track team in the Great Lakes 8 Conference a year ago, is out to prove that it can win it all this season.

Coach Ernie Righetti's Zebras tossed their hats into the title ring last Thursday with an 86-68 victory over Taylor Truman.

The meet, staged during threatening rains last Thursday, produced two Wayne double winners. Rick Blaha, considered one of the premier distance runners in the state this year, polished off the 2-mile run in 9:47.2, then came back and won the mile in a respectable 4:36.9.

Ron Mason contributed both the half-mile and the 440-yard run to the Zebras. Mason's 2:04.4 topped the half-mile field with Ron's teammates Mark Michalowski and Tim Quaintance finishing second and third. Mason also won the quarter-mile in 53.7. He again led two Wayne runners, Tim Dean and Michalowski, to the wire. "We looked much improved over our first outings Tuesday against Garden City West and John Glenn," said Coach Righetti. "We really looked bad in the opener."

John Glenn won the triangular, compiling 60 points to West's 54.

Few bright spots

Tiger trackmen drop first 2

Anytime Belleville loses to Ypsilanti in sports, it hurts. Immensely.

But the pain was soothed some, according to third year Belleville Coach Dave Medley, "because of our marked improvement from the opener to the second meet."

Belleville fell flat against Ann Arbor Huron, losing a lopsided 122-36 nonleague decision and Medley was the first to admit, "that we looked lousy."

However, the Tigers came back against their arch rival, Ypsilanti, and showed some life, despite a 92-65 setback. The latter also was an out-of-conference dual meet.

"It rained constantly during both our meets," Medley said, "but that's no excuse for our inept showing. Except for the performances of a few individuals we didn't show anything out there and we're going to have to improve to hold our heads high."

One reason the sting didn't hurt that much was the efforts of lanky

Chris Koger who quit jumping at 6 feet, 2 inches to win one of three Belleville events against Huron. (Koger has cleared 6 feet, 8 inches indoors and is considered a top-notch high jumper who may surprise many when the state finals roll around in May.)

Joining Koger in the victory column against Huron were teammates Chris Shoupe and Bradley McLean.

Shoupe won the pole vaulting competition with a vault of 10 feet, six inches, while McLean stunned Huron quarter-milers as he hit the tape first with a 52.2 effort.

Ypsilanti, blessed with some of the best quarter-milers in the state this season, swept 11 of the 15 events against the Tigers who again received a winning performance from Koger in the high jump (6'0"), along with Chuck Bullock, Dexter Hubbard and Bob Oakley.

Oakley carded a double victory in the distances, setting the 2-mile pace with a 10:04.0, then coming back to win the mile in a slow 4:44.3.

Hubbard beat Ypsilanti's Lee to the wire in the 120-yard high hurdles dual. The Belleville hurdler was clocked in 15.5, two-tenths of a second faster than his rival's.

After their third nonleague engagement on Tuesday at Taylor Truman, Belleville brings the curtain up on an uncertain Suburban 8 Conference season Thursday as host to Trenton.

Inkster Parks and Recreation Department is seeking men and women for its summer program.

The league is opened to residents and non-residents alike and games will be played on various city diamonds on Monday and Wednesday.

Players must be 18 and older to compete in the league. There is a registration fee.

Inkster's Junior Baseball Program registration continues this week at the Inkster City Hall. Potential players should be from six to 18 years old who will be playing in leagues according to their age. Players must be accompanied by a parent or guardian when they sign up and registration fees range from $3 to $6 depending upon the league they enter.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning the recreation offices at 565-4100.

Boston-bound

Stepping up his training and mileage in preparation for the 82nd running of the Boston Marathon, ex-Cherry Hill athlete Tim Masters wants to make sure that the "invisible wall" doesn't get him. Masters' goal former high school sweetheart, Sue, and the couple have a three-year-old child, Carrie. Masters also has completed his work for a bachelors at Eastern Michigan University, majoring in sociology. Because of an excess of teachers in the society, confesses Masters, he was forced to look for employment outside of teaching.

Monday will be to finish in the top 10 percent of the field that should exceed more than 4,100 runners who want to duplicate Pheidippides' legendary feat in ancient Greece.

What can a marathoner look forward to in Boston over the weekend and on Monday at "high noon" when the starter's pistol will signal the start of the race?

"No matter if you're a first class runner or just one of the 4,000 runners, you're a celebrity there," Masters says. "They treat you wonderfully and are helpful during and after the race. They estimate that there will be at least one million people lining the streets of Boston to watch the race."

Early Monday morning buses will take all competitors to Hopkinton High School, located approximately 26 miles from Boston, so that the runners can get dressed and prepare for the next three-hour ordeal. Near noon, all runners will be summoned to the starting line and those with the best qualifying times will have the privilege of being near the front of the pack. At exactly noon the starter will fire a pistol, Masters continued, and then the "paradox" begins.

"Though there are thousands in the field and a million on the sides cheering, it is now you and the clock, you and that 26 miles."

Do you try to start fast, to get ahead of the pack?

"No. You do what you have done during your training. You stick to you know what works for you, if you try something different, you're going to pay for it," says Masters.

Unlike the Motor City Marathon, where runners have a flat course, the Bostonian marathoner can look forward to a series of

Oops, ANP forgot to list Brown on All-Area Swim Team

It never fails to happen.

After the work the area coaches and the The Associated Newspapers' Sports Department suffers through to bring readers the "perfect" team, something goes wrong.

And, last week, something did go wrong.

Because of our haste we failed to list Tom Brown, Wayne Memorial's superb junior swimmer in the ANP's All-Area Honor Roll.

Brown was an unanimous choice by the coaches for his outstanding performance throughout the 1977-78 season. The 16-year-old protege of Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebra school of swimmers has excellent credentials.

He holds the school record in the 200-yard freestyle at 1:49.9 and also is a member of the record-setting 400-yard freestyle relay team that owns the mark at 3:24.5.

Tom captured a gold medal at the Great Lakes 8 Conference Championships, touching in first for the 200. He was second in the 500-yard freestyle to one of his own teammates, covering the distance in 5:04.0 and was a member of the Zebras' championship freestyle relay team.

"Tom was voted the Most Valuable junior swimmer on this year's team," commented McPartlin. "He is very dedicated and obviously we're very pleased to have him back with our team next year."

MHSAA announces district playoff tournament sites

Though most area high school baseball teams have not played their first game, the Michigan High School Athletic Association wasted little time to inform them of the sites for the district playoffs.

Area teams are scattered four areas with Belleville and Romulus making their annual trek to Ypsilanti where the Braves also will host Adrian, Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Brighton, Monroe, Temperance, Bedford, Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn. The district is considered one of the strongest in southeastern Michigan.

The Livonia teams are packed at the district which will be hosted by Redford High School. Some 13 teams, including Livonia Franklin, Churchill, Stevenson, and Bentley will join perennial powerhouse Detroit Catholic Central, Detroit Henry Ford, Detroit Redford, Lathrup Village, Southfield Lathrup, Redford Union and Redford at R.U. And Plymouth's two high school teams - Salem and Canton - can look forward to playing for the district title at Southfield High. Other hopefuls will include Farmington, Farmington Hills Harrison, North Farmington, Milford-Lakeland, Milford, Northville, Orchard Lake West Bloomfield, Southfield, Walled Lake Western and Walled Lake Central.

Cherry Hill's district title fortunes will have to be earned at South Lyons, site for one of the Class B playoffs. Most of the Dearborn and Dearborn Heights' Class B schools, including Divine Child, St. Alphonsus, Riverside, Robichaud, Inkster, Clarenceville, Melvindale, Novi and South Lyon will be pitted in that tournament.

The MHSAA has organized four tournament managerial meetings throughout the state for the purpose of reviewing procedures and rules for the May tournament. There will be such a meeting at Dearborn High School, Thursday, April 24, beginning at 1 p.m. in the school's auditorium. Jack Johnson, the school's athletic director, is the host.

AL WILKERSON

Wilkerson to gather track stats

Despite inclement weather and an uncooperative weatherman, the area track and field season got off to a fast start last week with most of the high schools competing in either dual or relays' competition.

And Romulus High's Al Wilkerson wasted little time in assembling The Associated Newspapers' initial prep track & field listing.

The listing appears on this page today and will continue to appear each week until the end of the season. Wilkerson and area coaches will also select a runner and a top field performer to be featured each week as the ANP's "Prep Athlete of the Week", a new feature.

Wilkerson, who brought the Romulus High track program to life after accepting the challenge three years ago, is a former three-sports man from Adrian High. He lettered in basketball, cross country and track.

Al is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and holds a masters in guidance counseling.

Coaches in the ANP area are urged to contact Coach Wilkerson in order to get their athletes' performances and times on the listing. He can be reached by telephoning Romulus High (941-2170) or at home (292-2621).

A first for John Long

Romulus' Johnny Long became the first University of Detroit basketball player to ever lead the Titans in scoring for four straight seasons.

Long netted 622 points during the 1977-78 campaign for a 21.4 average, his highest season average in his four seasons.

Grissom's world

Our wildlife 'orphans'

By SAM GRISSOM
Outdoor Writer

Every Spring tragedy strikes somewhere in Michigan's woods and fields.

A young child finds an "abandoned" wildlife baby. In their excitement and concern for the baby, they mistakenly assume that they have discovered an orphan.

Since they don't see the mother anywhere around, they are afraid that without their assistance the baby will die. Some children know that it isn't an orphan, but they want to take the "cute" baby home so that they can enjoy raising a wildlife pet.

Very few animals will survive the transition from wild and free environment to a captive one. The amount of work required to properly care for, and insure the survival of, a wild animal in captivity is staggering.

Many species require specialized formulas and around the clock feeding schedules that few people are capable of delivering.

Cottontail rabbits, for example, are the most commonly discovered "orphans". Even when they have weaned prior to capture, the survival rate is minimal. Usually in captivity they just wither and die. Case in point: The widely acclaimed, "Grizzly Adams Show" is forced to use domesticated brown rabbits as substitutes for cottontails.

Trenton hands Rockets loss

Despite some solid performances from members of their team, Westland John Glenn came up short against Trenton in their first dual meet of the season.

Coach Barry Basel's Rockets lost a close 82-76 decision to oust the league rival, Trenton.

The Westlanders swept three of five field events and garnered seven over-all first places against the Trojans, a much-improved squad over a year ago.

Ed Hamel's leap of 19 feet, 5 inches was good enough to give the Rockets a first in the long jump, and a 5 feet, 10 inches leap by Paul Langlois won the high jump, while Rick Pinkerton tossed the shot a distance of 43 feet for Glenn's third victory in the field.

The Westlanders carded the 2-mile run on Jim Kancierz' 10:17.1 burst and Randy Gabrys came through with a 2:01.2 to win the 880-yard run.

Jim Barber picked up the mile event for the Rockets (4:37.1), while the mile relay team of Mark Hobbins, Greg Houffley, Mark Johnson and Gabrys finished with the winning time of 3:36.6.

Glenn gals edge Wayne in opener

It was an excellent way to start the season for Coach Sheryl Caughey and Westland John Glenn's girls' track team.

The Rockets held off arch-rivals, Wayne Memorial 69-67, to launch the 1978 track campaign. The Westlanders split the 14 first places evenly with their rivals with Kathy McDougall contributing two of those to the winner's cause.

Miss McDougall leaped 15 feet, 11 inches to win the long jump, then ran a 12.5 to nose out Debbie Reyard in the 100-yard dash.

After taking part in the Spartan Relays on Saturday at Michigan State University, the Rockets return to the home field on Thursday to test Plymouth Canton.

Ex-Canton star playing baseball at Marietta College

Marietta College freshman Stephen Morman, former member of the Plymouth Canton varsity baseball team, will be an outfielder for the college's squad, this season.

Morman, a 1977 graduate of Canton High, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus A. Morman of 14449 Robinwood.

The Pioneers have been title contenders in their league and got off to a good spring training season by winning nine of 12 games. They opened their regular season on March 22 with a doubleheader against Morris Harvey College last month.

Many owners and service stations add plain water when engine coolant gets low, but it is a better practice to add a half-and-half mixture of coolant and water that will keep the fluid in the radiator from becoming diluted. This mixture can be made up in advance and kept for months in an old antifreeze container whose cap can still be tightly closed. Although the antifreeze agent in the coolant does not evaporate it does lose its effectiveness in time, particularly if it is diluted repeatedly with water.

Avoid trouble this Spring by checking fuel lines and water hoses in your car now! At KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster, you'll find a complete line of parts, accessories and tools for both foreign and domestic cars. Our experienced staff will be happy to help you select the hoses and other parts you need to repair your particular car. We also feature complete engine repair service and our modern machine shop handles all types of machine shop problems. Our service is fast, efficient and reasonably priced. Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894. We are open daily until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. AUTO TIP: Check the percentage of antifreeze agent in the coolant by using a radiator antifreeze hydrometer.

Attention, track coaches

To facilitate coverage of the 1978 high school track & field season, the Associated Newspapers sports editor Tom Mooradian is urging all area coaches to report results in Friday, preferably in the morning.

Most dual meet track meets are held Thursday night and if coaches hold off and wait until the weekend to call in, there is an inevitable clash with baseball and baseball coaches trying to report their weekend scores.

Therefore, whenever possible, coaches are urged to telephone (729-4000) on Friday.

Also, please have available the complete results, that is, the scoresheet so that we can give the winners and the four finishers in each of the 13 individual events credit for their performances.

For the relays, the ANP is interested in the names (first and last) of the winning teams.

When and where possible, the first names of all winners, (even though of rival teams) should be available.

RomulusSouth holds tryouts

With a bit of cooperation from the weatherman, Romulus South Little League will hold baseball tryouts the following two Saturdays.

The prospective players should show up ready for the tryouts at 10 a.m. at South Junior High diamond.

The officials are looking for players, ages 9-10, on Saturday, April 15 and players, ages 11-12, should be at the diamond on April 22.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning 941-3914 or 941-1037.

Harness racing takes over

They're off and running at DRC

An abundance of top quality horses and horsemen will be on hand as Wolverine Raceway kicks off its 29th year of harness racing at 8 p.m. (Monday, April 10th).

Wolverine's big mile track has attracted top stables from all over the country. The powerful 40 horse Frank O'Mara stable is coming up from Florida along with the stock of former Wolverinedriving champions Chris Boring and Ted Taylor. Hard driving Doug Ackerman is bringing 20 head from California and world champion lady driver Bea Farber is shipping in 15 horses from her winter headquarters in Georgia.

Northville Downs' driving champions Tom Harmer and Leroy Copeland will be present as will Windsor Raceway's top driver Bill Gale and leading trainer Jerry Moffatt. Three other highly successful Canadian drivers, Bill Hicks, Robert Lackey, and Lyle Grinnage will be racing at Wolverine for the first time.

In addition to the strong stables, the track's new general manager, Frank Bruno, has implemented a number of improvements at the Livonia facility. The grandstand has been scrubbed clean, walls and seats have been painted, and over $60,000 worth of new carpeting, draperies, tables and chairs have been installed throughout the plant. Mr. Bruno is also making long range plans for his facility and his currently taking estimates on the cost of enclosing the open air sections of the plant.

The largest change patrons will notice about the track is the easy accessibility the new Jeffries Freeway has given it. The Jeffries Freeway puts Wolverine Raceway less than 15 minutes away from downtown Detroit. Patrons may use either the Inkster or Middlebelt exits to enter the track.

As the result of a program to increase barn area security, the track's Inkster Road entrance has been permanently closed. Fans may enter the track through the Middlebelt or Schoolcraft gates.

Track officials have also revamped the nightly wagering format. Wolverine will offer a Daily Double on the first two races, Perfectas on the fourth and fifth races, and Trifectas on the third, seventh and tenth races. The popular $6 Trifecta box ticket and the Key Horse Wheel Trifecta ticket will again be offered.

Admission to Wolverine Raceway's grandstand will cost $2.50, the clubhouse admission will be $3.50, parking is $1.00, and programs will sell for 75 cents. No children under 12 years of age will be admitted.

Wolverine Raceway will conduct harness racing nightly, Mondays through Saturdays, with an 8 p.m. post time, from April 10th through July 15th. The Grand Circuit stakes races will be held between June 12th and June 17th, and the $25,000 added Motor City Pace will be raced on Friday, May 12th.

Instant recognition for winners

Top prep athletes converge on Mansfield (Ohio) relays

If a high school athlete wishes to receive instant national recognition in track and field, all he has to do is win at Mansfield, Ohio.

But that "all" will take some doing.

The annual Mansfield Relays beckon area track stars as well as the top athletes of Ohio and Indiana for the two-day meeting.

Most of the area high schools will be represented at the prestigious invitational which gets underway Friday and concludes Saturday night.

"Mansfield brings together some of the finest young athletes in the country," said Livonia Franklin Coach Bob Holmes whose team won the Northwest Suburban Conference title a year ago.

"This year we expect to take a mile relay team and a couple of individuals," Holmes added.

Making the trip from Franklin to Mansfield will be the foursome of Bob Urban, Nate Keane, Phil Frusti and Dave Bowen who compose the Patriot lineup for the mile relay.

Romulus will be represented in Ohio by Donald Grandison, Larry Young, Les Beregsasy and its mile relay team, according to coach Al Wilkerson.

Wilkerson's mile relay team will be made up of the following runners: Tim Flake, Beregsasy, Steve Zimmerman and Herb Buckley.

Belleville, which has an excellent opportunity of coming away with a medal in the high jump, has one of the premier leapers in Chris Koger.

Koger's 6'8" performance at the Eastern Michigan University Huron Relays set him up as the prep to watch in that event.

Koger's efforts, however, were indoors at EMU. If he can duplicate that performance outdoors, he will have the inside track on the gold.

Vintage hurlers

Viking baseball victories depend on 'the young and inexperienced'

The meaningful hostilities in the Suburban Athletic Conference don't get underway until next week, but already Inkster Coach Preston James forecasts an all-out war for the baseball championship.

Preston's Vikings salvaged a half of the title - with the other slice going to River Rouge and this year the two co-champs should figure in the title picture prominently.

However, Preston sees an improved Dearborn Heights Robichaud moving into the ranks of bona-fide contenders and with Highland Park in the wing - or is it on the wing again, it figures that four of the five SAC teams have a good shot at the championship.

The fifth team? Ecorse, of course.

And nobody counts Ecorse out of anything, as the red Raiders have proven over-and-over to athletes who look past them.

Preston's claim of a four-or-five team title race isn't extravagant - the SAC is noted for co-tri-and even four-way(would that be quad?) champs.

"We're a very young and inexperienced ball club," pointed out Preston whose 1977 vintage came away with a respectable 14-7 over-all record. "With time and experience we will get better, but a lot depends on those early games - we must stay within striking distance or it'll be over for us."

Potentially, Inkster has one of the finest looking pitching rotations around. Stocked with three veterans of proven ability, the Vikings have ace Vincent Parker, who won five of his six starts a year ago. Senior Tony Smith, owner of a good fastball and breaking pitch, brings a 3-1 record back to the mound and he should improve upon that mark. When not pitching, Smith's ability will be put to use in the infield at shortstop.

The third starter on the mound is a southpaw, Alvin Dukes, who boasted a 3-2 record a year ago.

Inkster's visible deficiencies include lack of experience behind the plate, so Preston has switched Stacey Bostick, who started in the infield as a freshman, to the catcher post in hopes to shore up the hole created by the departure of James Hicks, an all-league performer.

Hicks received a full-ride scholarship to Central State College in Ohio after playing four years as a regular on Preston's teams.

John Stevenson's bat should come in use. Though he wasn't a regular a year ago, the good-looking prospect should be greatly improved.

The rest is despair if Preston's fails to find the available troops. Because of the weather - a item of complaint echoed incessantly the last two weeks by all of the coaches in the area - Preston doesn't know just how his players will react under actual fire.

"Time is going to tell us a lot," insists Preston.

Chuck Herbst opened the scoring to give Broch's an early lead, but Terry Carley countered and tied it up with his first goal of the game.

Early in the second period Broch's broke the deadlock with Bud Broch's initial goal, then Don Bates found the range to make it 3-1 and it appeared Broch had the game under control.

However, Broch didn't count on Huron Valley's Carey and Tom Dilaura who notched consecutive goals to tie up the game at 3-all with six minutes remaining in the semi-final confrontation.

As the game appeared well on its way to an overtime, Dilaura broke loose again, this time with a mere 58 seconds left to score what proved to be the decisive goal of the match.

Huron Valley and 52nd were scheduled to meet Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the Wayne Arena to decide who'll wear the playoff crown. Extra Point Bar won the season title with a 18 win and three loss record.

Wayne, Glenn '9s'

threatened and scored the winning run. Tim Ruark hit a dribbler to third that bounced off the base. With Irwin, considered one of the finest ball players in the state this season, at the plate, Ruark attempted to steal and was thrown out. Then Irwin drilled a triple - his second of the day.

Glenn ended the game when Martin managed to squeeze Irwin home from third.

In his pitching debut, Kaltenbach notched seven strikeouts, walked two and gave up that lone single to Layton, while Korte was relieved in the fifth by Solarz who was touched for the loss.

Glenn finished behind North Farmington and Garden City East in the race for the Northwest Suburban Conference crown a year ago, a mere half-game out of first. Though Hoenes, who is entering his 13th season as head coach, is enthused with this year's prospects, he says he knows this team has a lot of shortcomings.

"We have only five holdovers from a year ago, and North has nearly all of its players back. They definitely are the class of the league this year."

hills, says Masters, "including 'Heartbreak Hill'".

At the half-way point, the guys will have the pleasure of being greeted by Wellsey College's young and attractive coeds who are on the sidelines offering the runners refreshments and cheering them on.

Then comes Newton Hills where there is 17 miles left and the body is beginning to cry for "glycogen" and if you make it up and down Newton, you're then challenged by "Heartbreak Hill", the steepest of the lot which has become the "Waterloo" of many inexperienced runners.

If you successfully negotiate that hill," says Masters, there is a police officer on top with a bullhorn, "congratulating you and informing you, "that the rest is downhill".

It may be - points out Masters - but then there is the indomitable "wall".

Masters explains:

"Fatigue hits you usually around the 20-mile mark. You know, no one, not even the doctors have an explanation for it, but the muscles run out of glycogen, the fuel that is considered the key ingredient for distance and endurance running. Because the body used up all of the glycogen, it turns on a computer and tells the muscles to begin utilizing fat and during the transition you can barely move - like running up against an invisible wall."

Masters tells of the cop who, upon coming on a weary marathoner asked, "Why did you stop?" The runner replied, "I hit the "wall".

"We're you hurt?" responded the officer.

Once over 'Heartbreak Hill' is the stretch run for the marathoner and Masters' psychology is "to keep my eyes on the Prudential Building".

"The building stands 56 stories, so you can't miss it and once you spot it you know that you're five miles from the finish," Masters said.

Aside from dehydration and aching Achilles tendons and swollen muscles, what awaits the winner of the Boston Marathon?

And can Masters win it?

"I'm really not there to win it," says Masters. "There are some outstanding marathoners in the field including guys like Bill Rodgers, who represented the States in the Olympics and Frank Shorter - we're talking about the real greats of endurance running. I'm there because the Boston Marathon is there.

"And the winner of Boston can look forward to getting all-expense paid trip to Japan to run in the Fukioka Marathon, where all the glory and thorns are."

Good luck, Tim.

Umpires are needed in Wayne

With the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department seeking baseball managers and umpires, can summer be far off?

Recreation officials announced today that they need baseball managers for their Class F league and also are searching for qualified baseball umpires.

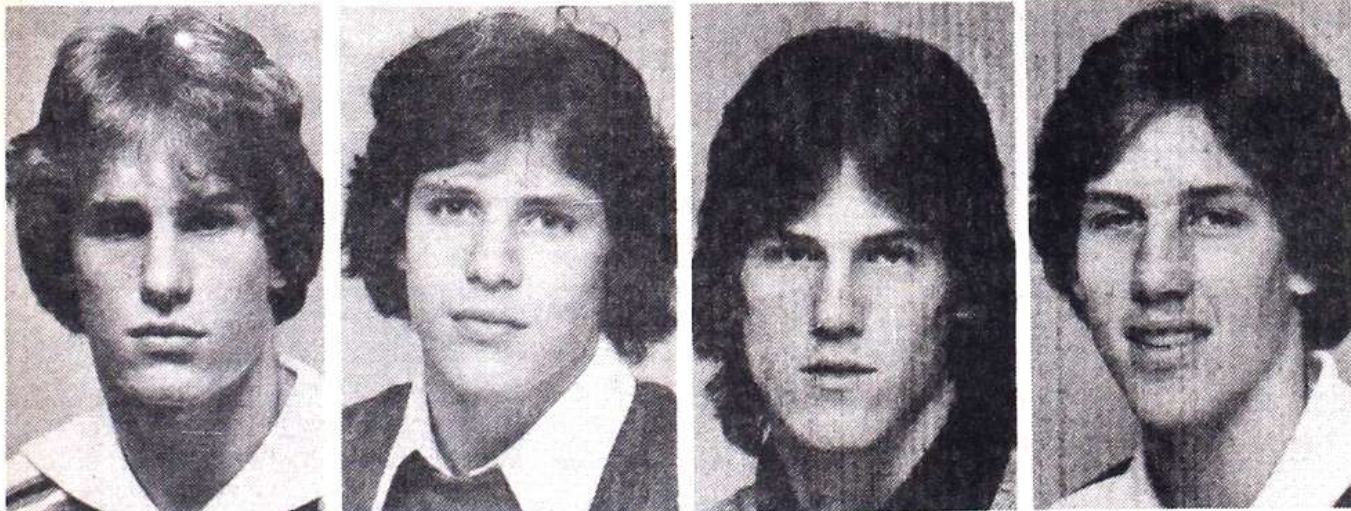

Though the managers won't be paid for their work, the umpires will receive between $6.50 and $8.50 depending on previous experience and the division they are scheduled to officiate.

Registration is still being accepted in the Wayne recreation department's Class F and Grapefruit leagues. Players are eligible to play Class F if they are between the ages of 11,12 and 13; however, Grapefruit League players should be between the ages of 8-9-10.

Potential ball players, who must be Wayne residents, may sign up for the Class F league and Grapefruit division during the week between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. at the parks and recreation offices, Howe and Annapolis. Further information may be obtained by telephoning the department at 721-7400.

PAUL SVABIK BILL LEE CURT LEWIS TOM JUREWICZ

3 from Glenn get full-ride scholarships

Three Westland John Glenn gridders who helped Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets win a share of the Northwest Suburban Conference championship last fall will reap the fruits of their performances in the form of full-ride athletic scholarships.

Quarterback Bill Lee, lineman Tom Jurewicz and linebacker Paul Svabik have signed national letters of intent to attend state colleges in the fall.

Grand Valley will receive the services of Lee, named the top back in the Northwest Conference and also the 1977 All-Area signal-caller.

Lee's teammate, Svabik, will also join Grand Valley's football ranks. The 6', 190-pound senior, was the Rockets' fullback and also served as a linebacker throughout his senior career.

Jurewicz will head for Detroit and Wayne State University to team up with a host of All-Area Alumni who have made it with the Tartars. The 6-5, 205-pound Jurewicz was a defensive end and doubled as an offensive tackle. He was voted the conference's No.1 lineman.

"We're proud of these kids," Gordon said. "They are a credit to their parents, their school and the community. We know they will represent us well in the college ranks."

Wayne State will also receive the football services of Livonia Franklin's defensive halfback, Dave Bowen, of Westland. Bowen is a 6-1, 180-pound senior who has three years varsity experience behind him.

Plymouth Salem, the undisputed Suburban 8 Conference champ, will send two of its gridders to Bowling Green on athletic scholarships. They are John Broderick, a 6-4, 211-pound defensive lineman and Curt Lewis, a 6-1, 180-pound running back.

They'll join up with Matt Humphrey, the son of Garden City East athletic director, Gary Humphrey, and Bryan Gibbs, an East High fullback who was named to the Northwest Suburban Conference all-league team.

Matt Humphrey quarterbacked Divine Child's Falcons in the tough Catholic League "AA" Division last season.

Glenn tops Wayne, GC West in track debut

Indomitable John Glenn track coach Barry Basel learned of his team's shortcomings, but they fortunately were few and far between as the Westlanders stunned arch-rival, Wayne Memorial and visiting Garden City West in the opening meet of the season.

The Rockets picked up six of the 16 events, including two relays to beat out Garden City West by six points, 60 to 54 and Wayne by seven points in a triangular staged under threatening skies.

"It was our first meet and though we didn't look good, you have to be satisfied when you win," said Coach Basel.

Wayne Memorial's Ernie Righetti said his team, "really looked awful. I just couldn't believe that these were our kids out there. We were bad and the less said about that first meet the better off. We're just going to have to improve."

Rick Pinkerton accounted for two of the four individual Glenn victories. The Glenn athlete tossed the discus 130 feet, 1 inch for one victory, then had a put of 45 feet, 1 inch for the second.

Wayne's stellar distance runner, Rick Blaha, launched his senior season with a double victory as he covered the 2-mile in a 10:05.5. He was clocked in 4:27.6 to win the mile.

Glenn's 88-yard relay made up of John Combs, Mark Apsley, Scott Thornton and Greg Houfley coasted past its Wayne counterparts, while the mile group of Jim Green, Mark Johnson, Greg Houfley and Gabrys breezed to a 3:29 finish. Wayne was clocked in 3:45.2, while third place finisher, West, posted a 3:57.4.

Entry blanks are available for Pitch, Hit & Run contest

Area boys and girls ages 9 through 12 who are interested in competing in Major League Baseball's official youth program Pitch, Hit & Run (PH&R) can obtain entry forms through May 13 at the Thom McAnn shoe store located at Wonderland Center, 29663 Plymouth Rd., Livonia, Mich. 48150.

Thom McAnn is sponsoring this program for the second consecutive year in cooperation with the National Recreation and Park Association (NRPA), who will act as judges for the competitions, and the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Interested youngsters must fill out and return the registration form to their local store. The forms must also be signed by a parent or guardian. Youngsters will also receive from Thom McAnn a free "PH&R Tips Booklet" which contains helpful hints on pitching, hitting and running from baseball stars Jim Palmer of Baltimore, Minnesota's Rod Carew and Cincinnati's Joe Morgan.

The winners in each age group at the local level will then compete in a district event from the chance to move up to one of 12 divisional competitions. These will be held at various major league ballparks throughout the United States.

The eight youngsters, two from each age group, who achieve the highest scores in the divisionals will then advance to the national finals which will take place prior to the All-Star game in San Diego, Calif., on July 11.

The finalists and their parents will be guests of Thom McAnn Shoe Co.

Wayne whips Kennedy in opening net match

Though he isn't ready to talk about championships or titles, Coach Jack Armstrong said he was pleased with his team's opening day performance against Taylor Kennedy.

The Wayne tennis coach watched his Zebras annihilate their nonleague rivals, 7-0, and right down the line Armstrong looks as if he has a championship team.

"We looked good," Armstrong confided. "There's a lot of balance on this team."

Though he suppressed talks of titles, Armstrong was quick to point out that Monroe, the defending Great Lakes 8 Conference champ, will be a strong contender again this year. And Fordson, a perennial power, also is tough.

"We're going to have to wait and see what develops," said Armstrong who took his team up against Taylor Truman Monday night for their opening conference match.

Match results: Wayne Memorial 7, Taylor Kennedy 0

Fans to honor Rudy T.

Rudy Tomjanovich captain of the Houston Rockets of the NBA, will be honored by his alma mater, Hamtramck High School, at a banquet to be held on Tuesday, May 2, at the Polish Century Club 5181 E. Outer Drive, Detroit.

Known affectionately as Rudy T. by both friends and the letter-conscious sports media, Tomjanovich will be "coming home" to accept plaudits for a distinguished athletic career that has spanned All-State honors (Hamtramck High, 1966), All-American recognition (University of Michigan, 1970), and All-Pro laurels (Houston Rockets, 1977).

"Rudy has done so much for Hamtramck High and his community through his outstanding playmaking and his quiet dignity that we felt a special day should be set aside to show him appreciation," stated Sam Perry, principal of Hamtramck High and member of the banquet committee.

Many of the sports' personalities in the state will be on hand to voice their sentiments, including U. of M. basketball coach Johnny Orr and River Rouge mentor Lofton Green who was recently selected to the prestigious Michigan Sport's Hall of Fame.

Tickets, priced $15, can be obtained at Hamtramck High School, 11410 Charest, Hamtramck 48212. Checks or money orders should be made payable to The Rudy T. Banquet Committee. Reservations must be made on or before Wednesday, April 26, 1978.

A program featuring noted sport personalities will follow a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. and a full-course dinner at 7 p.m.

Tomjanovich will be formally inducted into the Hamtramck High Hall of Honor, also, on Wednesday, May 3. A student assembly will be held in the school auditorium to see Tomjanovich gain entrance into the prestigious body of distinguished alumni.

The Banquet Committee is headed by Art May, Judy Lasinski, Florence DeLagula and Perry.

Wayne sets dates for fishing derby

The derby, named after Mark Twain's always-in-trouble, Huckleberry Finn, will be held the weekend of April 29 and 30th at the Attwood Pool. Registration is at the Wayne Community Center, Howe and Annapolis.

Any Wayne resident will also have the opportunity to fish from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m., Monday, May 1 and May 2. Participants must furnish their own equipment.

All children between the ages of 3 and 10 who must be accompanied by an adult may compete in the derby. There is no registration fee for the derby, and the recreation department will furnish equipment for the kids.

Further information may be obtained about the derby and the May 1-2 fishing by contacting the Wayne Community Center at 721-7400.

Fishing, anyone?

Look, dad, I got one. That could be what the youngster is telling his dad at the Attwood Pool where the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department will hold its annual Huck Finn Fishing Derby. Registration for the derby is now being accepted at the recreation department offices in the Wayne Community Center, Howe and Annapolis.

Energy Outlook:

Returning to Normal.

The nation's longest coal strike has now become history and shipments of coal are returning to normal. For Detroit Edison customers this means you have all the electricity you need, but we hope you will continue to use it wisely.

Unlike many other states, Michigan was able to avoid mandatory power cutoffs through careful planning and the cooperation of business, government and consumers. By buying electricity from outside sources and by burning alternate fuels like natural gas and oil, Detroit Edison was able to stretch its supply of coal and help avoid shutdowns and layoffs. Of course, this was more expensive and the costs will be reflected in higher electric bills for April, May and June. For the average customer using 500 kilowatt hours, this could amount to between $2 and $3 more than billed in March.

The recent crisis once again points out the need for energy consciousness on the part of everyone. So while coal is beginning to move again, Detroit Edison would like to remind all its customers to use good judgement in their use of electricity. This especially holds true for major energy users like refrigerators, furnace blowers, air conditioners and electric clothes dryers. The more wisely these appliances are used, the more the savings in energy and money will count up.

Detroit Edison thanks you for your cooperation during the coal strike and reminds you to save where it really counts. The power is in your hands.

DID-U-KNOW?

...it would take an oven larger than a two story house to cook the chickens Chatham sells in one week.

Holly Farms®
CHICKEN

CHATHAM SELLS US GRADE A HOLLY FARMS CHICKEN. IT'S DATED FOR FRESHNESS AND SHIPPED CHILLED, NEVER FROZEN OR PACKED IN ICE. IT'S ONLY ONE REASON CHATHAM SELLS SO MUCH CHICKEN EVERY WEEK.
